LONDON—(AP)—British naval sources declined today to comment on the German report of a major attack on a British North Atlantic convoy.

(By Associated Press)

Germany announced today, hard on the heels of President Roosevelt's order for a shoot-on-sight defense by American warships at the approach of "rattlesnake" Axis raiders, that German U-boat torpedoes are even now slashing through the waters of the North Atlantic in one of the greatest convoy attacks of the war

So far, 22 ships have been sunk out of more than 40 vessels in a heavily-guarded convoy, Adolf Hitler's high command said in a special bulletin—and the assault is proceeding.

Presumably the convoy was bearing American war supplies to Britain.

Although Germany's formal stand on Mr. Roosevelt's broadcast was shrouded in official silence, the significantly timed announced of the convoy attack made it appear to Berlin correspondents that the Reich was trying to answer the president's warning with action instead of words.

Hardly had foreign correspondents in Berlin reached their offices, empty-handed after a noon press conference, than the Berlin radio with a fanfare of trumpets informed the world of the convoy sinkings.

In the first authorized Berlin comment, a Nazi spokesman declared scornfully that "all Roosevelt's contentions are lies" and that Mr. Roosevelt's reference to freedom of the seas was "the peak of hypocrisy."

The president, he said, must bear responsibility for "all consequences."

Axis Retorts Its Ships Must Attack In Self-Defense As Britain Cheers Roosevelt 'Shoot-on-Sight' Speech

(By Associated Press)

President Roosevelt's shoot-on-sight warning to Axis sea raiders and submarines drew from a Rome spokesman today the declaration that every Italian or German warship must attack American navy vessels "for its self-defense if it lacks the possibility of escaping attack."

The Germans, rigidly avoiding direct official comment, contented themselves with a special communique announcing the sinking of 22 British ships in one of the greatest submarine attacks of the war on a North Atlantic convoy—an attack they said was still going on.

The Italian "attack for defense" threat came from Virginio Gayda, chief Fascist editorial spokesman.

The German radio commented briefly for consumption abroad:

"Roosevelt's provocations, with which he tries to slap Germany in the face, naturally leave Germany cool and calm. . . . His entire speech was an attempt to burden Germany now and for the future with all guilt."

The third Axis partner, Japan, was officially noncommittal.

An authorized source in Vichy called President Roosevelt's speech "a new lap in the United States president's policy" which he said was "destined to prepare American public opinion for the need to run new risks."

Grim Warning Given Axis In Roosevelt Talk

German, Italian Ships Told They Enter U. S. Defensive Waters at Own Peril; President Orders Mission to Moscow to Speed Help.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—The United States navy patrolled the broad Atlantic today ready to shoot on sight at any German or Italian vessel of war as the nation soberly weighed full import of President Roosevelt's grim warning to Adolf Hitler that America is fully prepared for an undeclared sea war against continued acts of Nazi "piracy."

Supporters of administration policy hailed last night's stern world broadcast by the president as "a clear exposition of the historic and traditional policy of the United States with regard to the freedom of the seas."

Non-interventionists charged that Mr. Roosevelt had brought the country on the verge of a shooting war by presidential proclamation and had sanctioned convoys despite law against them.

All seemed agreed, however, that the die had been cast and the next move is up to Hitler because the president, as commander-in-chief, has directed American patrolling warships and planes to protect "all merchant ships" in "defensive waters" of the western hemisphere.

And Mr. Roosevelt had placed no limitation on these "defensive waters."

"Let this warning be clear," he asserted in measured words. "From now on, if German or Italian vessels of war enter the waters, the protection which is necessary for American defense, they do so at their own peril."

The White House had promised that when the president delivered his momentous message to the world America's future policy would be expressed "in plain English—English that needs no interpretation." Two terse paragraphs from the address summed up that policy:

"In the waters which we deem necessary for our defense, American naval vessels and American planes will no longer wait until Axis submarines lurking under the

WELL DAMAGED, CITY ESCAPES WATER CRISIS

Source, Providing Mansfield With Fourth of Supply, Out of Operation.

Mansfield had a close brush with a water crisis in the past two days as the result of damaging on a well which supplies nearly one-fourth of the city's water, city officials revealed today.

Service-Safety Director C. M. Crafton announced that No. 6 well, the old Markley well, which supplies more than a million and a half gallons of water daily, had been put out of commission Wednesday night when its well-shaft was broken.

Crafton and O. C. Kalbfleisch, waterworks superintendent, said they believed lightning had damaged the well. A sudden power interruption Wednesday night sent the water impellers on the No. 6 well in operating in reverse. The surge of electrical power coming back in less than 30 seconds, according to the officials, put such pressure against the impellers, that the shaft was broken or unscrewed from the impellers. Workmen were repairing it today.

Since then O. C. Kalbfleisch, water superintendent, has been attempting to get into operation No. 3, the Griebling well, to eliminate the possibility of a shortage in the supply.

The No. 3 well was finally started last night at 10 p. m. It had been out of commission for several weeks. Workers began cleaning the well and replacing a burned-out bearing on Monday.

The damage to the No. 6 well at the same time the No. 3 well

Petroleum Board Fails to Lift Gasoline Restrictions.

Acting Petroleum Coordinator Ralph K. Davies said he stood pat on his previous appraisal of the situation, adding that "the necessity for public cooperation continues."

Secretary Ickes, at variance with a senate committee on the question of petroleum supplies, believes "persons in the east who contend there is no gasoline shortage may have to eat their words six months from now."

Richland County Resident Marks 100th Birthday

The 100th birthday anniversary of Mrs Katherine Schwert, Richland county resident, was quietly observed today at the farm home, three miles west of Ontario, where she has lived for the past three-quarters of a century.

Bedfast the past year due to a stroke, Mrs. Schwert confined the anniversary celebration to receiving the customary birthday cake that is always baked by Mrs. Paul Schwert, a nephew's wife, living on an adjoining farm, and to greeting a few callers.

Her son, William Schwert, and his wife, who now reside on the home farm, shared in Three pages of pictures are used to illustrate the article, captioned "The Bromfields Live in Ohio." One of these, a photograph by Karger, shows Louis Bromfield seated on the enormous semi-circular work desk that he designed for his study.

NEW SERVICE TO START TUESDAY

Postoffice To Begin Daily Mail Schedule To Bigger Area of City.

Due to the growth of the city and to building of new homes, approximately 300 additional Mansfielders will begin receiving city mail delivery service, and nine more men will find employment with the Mansfield postoffice, as three new clerks and six new carriers start serving five new districts on Tuesday, Postmaster H. E. Homberger announced today.

In a redistribution of routes, the Mansfield territory was split up in order to make more routes and cut down on the number of stops each carrier has to make. Postmaster Homberger pointed out that persons living in the districts affected by the change will now be receiving regular city instead of rural service, and that they must replace rural mail boxes with weatherproof, metal, city delivery boxes.

Approved for appointment to the Mansfield postoffice are Donald C. Schneider, Robert L. Bride, jr., and John J. Goff, clerks, and Carl M. Breyman, Henry C. Hardy, Ernest W. Jones, Norman C. Oliver, Paul H. Oales and Frank A. Winters, carriers.

IN REVOLT

Miners Threaten To Spread Strike as Lewis Protest.

HAZELTON, Pa. —(INS)— Leaders of a rank and file revolt against John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers union today threatened to extend a walkout in the Hazelton and Panther Creek hard coal areas to embrace 20,000 miners in protest against increased union dues and assessments.

Insurgent miners declared they would carry the work stoppage into the Wilkes-Barre and Pottsville regions if a union order raising dues and assessments from $14 to $24 a year was not cancelled. More than 12,000 miners had quit work by nightfall yesterday, it was estimated.

Determination to continue the strike was voiced at a mass meeting during which 4,000 miners shouted down the efforts of Hugh V. Brown, president of UMW'S district 7, to halt their walkout.

MERCURY HITS SUMMER'S LOW

Drops To 37, Only 5 Above Freezing; Warmer Weather on Way.

Fires were lighted in Mansfield homes and heavy clothing came out of storage this morning as the mercury dropped to 37 degrees, only five above freezing, and heavy frost was reported in sections of the county. It was the lowest reading since last spring.

Although the weather was unusually chilly for late summer, it was colder on the same date last year, weather records show. A year ago today the mercury dropped to 34.

While frost coated vegetation in exposed places this morning, it was not believed heavy enough to cause serious damage to crops.

The cool wave is due to move on tonight, the weatherman said, with increasing cloudiness menu for Saturday. With the and warmer weather on the mercury remaining below 70 degrees yesterday, the average for the day was 53.5 degrees, 15 below normal.

Mansfield reported one of the lowest readings in the nation. Cleveland had a 46-degree minimum and it was 51 in Columbus. The coldest spot to report officially was Saulte Ste Marie, Mich., with 35 degrees.

Proof that warmer weather is on the way was seen in the temperature reports for points in the west and northwest where readings were considerably higher than in Ohio. Minneapolis had a minimum of 58 and most of the stations in the west had higher readings.

REFUTES BOARD ON REASON FOR WOODEN BRIDGE

Conservancy Officials Declare Plan Doesn't Include North Main Structure.

Although there was little likelihood that county commissioners would change their plans, officials of the Richland county conservancy district today shot from under the county board its chief reason for building a $6,000 temporary wooden bridge on North Main street instead of a modern permanent structure.

C. L. Hartenfels, member of the conservancy district board, declared that he had not heard of the board being approached by the commissioners and that he did not believe the conservancy project would come anywhere near the bridge.

"Our plan is to go far to the east of the bridge," said Hartenfels. "As far as I know the conservancy district has nothing to do with a Main street bridge."

C. L. Mitchell, chairman of the board of commissioners, had announced previously that the commissioners did not consider it "advisable to spend that much money on a bridge which may not be needed if the conservancy district pushes its flood control project."

Mitchell was in Toledo today and could not be reached for comment but Commissioner Ray Hout said that the commissioners had "understood Touby's Run would be filled in with earth and that there would be no need for a bridge.

Hartenfels declared that the conservancy board's first task was to pay off its bonded indebtedness.

"For all we know," said Hartenfels, "the new bridge may stand there a hundred years. We

PROBING DEATH

Police Investigate Finding of Dancer's Body.

NEW YORK—(INS)—Police today investigated the mysterious death of 26-year-old Mary Woodruff, pretty red-haired night club dancer, who yesterday was found in bed in a nightgown in her midtown Manhattan studio apartment.

Ruling on the cause of death was withheld pending an autopsy, to be made later today. Philip Goldstein, assistant medical examiner, said indications were that she had died from an overdose of sleeping tablets.

Miss Woodruff, who was billed in New York nightclubs under the name of Mary Barton, had been missing since Sunday, and medical examiners estimated that she had been dead four days before the discovery of the body.

PLAN BATTLE ON NEW LEASE-LEND

Congressional Foes Indicate They'll Hit FDR Policy Through Measure.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — Construing President Roosevelt's "shoot on sight" policy as carrying the nation nearer to full participation in the European war, congressional foes today indicated that a drive will be made to write restrictive amendments in the forthcoming lend-lease bill.

Plainly shocked by Mr. Roosevelt's firmness, congressional non-interventionists expect a formal meeting of their bloc to be called within the next week to plan a definite course of action.

Sen. Nye (R., N. D.), a non-interventionist leader, predicted that the new lend-lease appropriation bill may be made the vehicle of the biggest legislative battle over the administration foreign policy in months.

"I am sure that the president's address will cause congress to deal more stringently with the new lend-lease bill than would otherwise be the case," Nye said.

Admittedly facing an uphill battle because Mr. Roosevelt based his policy on his duty under the constitution, non-interventionists nevertheless saw these possibilities for legislative action:

1. Prohibition against American ships being transferred to foreign

County Tax Collections Hit Boom Pace, $1,346,102 Paid

One of the best real estate tax collections in Richland county since the boom days of 1929 has poured $1,346,102 into the county treasury so far this year, an increase of $38,436 over the total 1940 receipts, County Treasurer Charles Payne said today.

Collections are virtually complete for the year, although scattered payments of delinquent taxes may continue to come in during the final three months of 1941, the treasurer said.

Receipts for the last half of the year totaled $659,214 while the first-half collection produced $686,888, the treasurer's records showed. The funds include real estate levies and special assessments on properties.

Improved business conditions were credited with the better showing this year. Property owners not only paid more of their current taxes but they made sizeable payments on delinquent tax bills, Payne said.

Because the county tax duplicate now is far below the 1929 figure and tax rates generally are lower, this year's receipts amount to only about half of the 1929 total when the treasurer collected close to $3,000,000. On the basis of comparative duplicates and rates, however, the 1941 collection is considered nearly on a par with the tax "take" in the prosperous times before 1930, the treasurer said.

A new state law requiring treasurers to mail tax statements to property owners helped to get taxes paid more promptly this year, employes in the treasurer's office believe.

FACING TEST

Truck Parking Plan To Avoid Congestion Gets Big Trial.

Mansfield's newest plan for eliminating double-parked trucks and the clogging of traffic on downtown streets faced its first real test today as week-end shoppers added to the regular traffic flow.

Traffic Commissioner Frend C. Boals said that although the plan of reserving block-end spaces for trucks loading or unloading merchandise for stores had been successful since its inauguration Monday that no decision could be made until the week-end had passed.

"Our week-end traffic is more than double that of the week days," said Boals. "If we can keep the streets open today and tomorrow, the greater part of our problem will be solved."

Members of the traffic squad hood the parking meters at downtown intersections early each morning to provide trucks with parking space.

PRESIDENT HITS 'PIRACY,' TELLS NAVY TO SHOOT

Grim Warning Given Axis In Roosevelt Talk; Mission Sent To Moscow.

water, or Axis raiders on the surface of the sea, strike their deadly blow—first.

"Upon our naval and air patrol—now operating in large number over a vast expanse of the Atlantic ocean—falls the duty of maintaining the American policy of freedom of the seas—now. That means, very simply and clearly, that our patrolling vessels and planes will protect all merchant ships—not only American ships but ships of any flag—engaged in commerce in our defensive waters. They will protect them from submarines; they will protect them from surface raiders."

As an added concrete evidence of his determination to help "crush" Hitler, the president this morning called in the American mission to Russia, headed by W. Averell Harriman, and dispatched it to Moscow with orders to explore every possible avenue of aid the U. S. could extend to the Soviet government.

Mr. Roosevelt saw the mission at the hour he customarily held his Friday press conference that had been cancelled because he decided to let the speech speak for itself.

Sen. Tom Connally (D.) Tex., chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, summed up the position of those who applauded the president's strong stand when he said:

"President Roosevelt's address was an elegant and clear exposition of the historic and traditional policy of the United States with regard to freedom of the seas. His determination to maintain that policy will meet with the approbation of the people of the United States.

"I hope our destroyers will shoot hard and straight."

Sen. Nye (R.) N. D., member of the senate non-interventionist bloc, expressed the attitude of the opposition when he declared:

"The president's speech puts us nearer to a shooting war by presidential proclamation. It means convoys despite law against them and despite assurances he had given congress in order that he might have the legislation that has brought us to this hour.

"The president declares that we shall defend our rights on the seas with the president reserving to himself alone the right to determine which seas are essential to our defense, be it the Caribbean, the Black, or the Red sea. He has conveniently forgotten the day when he and his spokesmen urged and approved legislation conceding that in time of war there was no such thing as freedom of the seas.

Mr. Roosevelt used fighting words when he presented the case upon which he acted—the Nazi U-boat attack on the U. S. destroyer Greer and the sinking of the Robin Moor, the Sessa and the steel Seafarer.

"When you see a rattlesnake poised to strike, you do not wait until he has struck before you crush him," he asserted.

But the commander-in-chief of the armed forces denied any warlike inclination, putting the sole responsibility on Germany if there is to be any shooting.

"We have sought no shooting war with Hitler," said the president. "We do not seek it now. But neither do we want peace so much that we are willing to pay for it by permitting him to attack our naval and merchant ships while they are on legitimate business."

Mr. Roosevelt pointed to the intrigues, plots machinations and sabotage to which Hitler had resorted in the New World to get a bridgehead over which he ultimately could reach the United States.

These included "a plot to seize the government of Uruguay" last year; a similar abortive plot to upset the government of Argentina; a more recent effort to subvert the government of Bolivia," and, within the last few weeks, the discovery of secret air landing fields in Colombia, within easy reach of the Panama canal."

"My obligation as president is historic; it is clear, it is inescapable," declared Mr. Roosevelt.

"It is no act of war on our part when we decide to protect the seas which are vital to American defense. The aggression is not ours. Ours is solely defense."

President's Stand Gets 10-1 Backing

WASHINGTON — (INS) — Response to President Roosevelt's orders to the navy to "shoot first" at Nazi submarines had, up to mid-morning today, elicitated a 10 to 1 favorable telegraph response at the White House.

Presidential Secretary Stephen T. Early said that 1,600 telegrams had been received up to the hour of his press conference and carefully checked. Only 150 were found to be not in accord or critical, he said.

was being repaired, according to Crafton, brought matters "to a ragged edge."

The No. 3 well can supply about 700,000 gallons daily, only half of that supplied by the No. 6 well. Both are located southwest of the city near Alta and are pumped through the Maxwell springs pumping station.

There was no real danger that the city would suffer a water shortage, Crafton said, because two wells from the Hedges pumping station could have been turned on immediately.

He hesitated to do this however, Crafton said, because it would have cost the city $800 as a power toll. "If the Hedges station is run for one hour or twenty hours," said Crafton, "the city must pay a demand toll of $800."

Crafton declared that the city could get 7,000,000 gallons daily from its wells if necessary. The loss of the No. 6 well brings the capacity down to 5,500,000. The city uses from between 3,800,000 to 5,000,000 gallons daily, Kalbfleisch reported.

The water superintendent said that work on repairing the No. 6 well would begin immediately. He said he expected that one to two days would be required to put it into operation again.

have no intention of saddling the people with the enormous tax levy which would be needed to do the work."

"If the government will assume the task after the war is over," he continued, "we will try to have it done. It would cost at least a million and a half dollars to carry out the project."

The conservancy board member said there was little chance that anything would be done in five and maybe ten years.

Mitchell announced yesterday that the commissioners had a tentative deal with a Columbus bridge firm to build a $6,000 wooden bridge over the stream.

The county refused to go ahead with a permanent concrete bridge at a cost of $40,000, half to be paid by the state. The state had agreed to help pay the cost of the bridge if the county would contribute $40,000 toward the construction of an underpass beneath the Erie railroad crossing on Route 30, west of the city.

The commissioners complained after the WPA estimate of the bridge's cost was raised from $18,000 to $22,000 and finally to $40,000 which the state said would make a "permanent" structure.

Mrs. Bromfield Turns Author, Tells Story of Malabar Farm

Mrs. Bromfield introduces her story by acquainting her readers with the location of the farm. She describes the rolling countryside by saying, "In looking over it, or driving through it, we are reminded at times of Gloucestershire or Central Austria and in certain places of parts of Burgundy, only the scale is grander and more open."

About the farm itself Mrs. Bromfield said, "It is a working farm not in the remotest sense a 'gentleman's or 'city farm.' It has become a government demonstration farm in the field of soil conservatio nand a kind of experiment station in trying out things which neighboring farms in Ohio are sometimes reluctant to attempt. We have a rule in these experiments, that we attempt nothing which our neighbors cannot afford."

"The house is built," she continued, "to be used not only by the family but from time to time by the community itself." She tells of the large basement being used as a meeting hall by such organizations as the Farm Bureau, Junior Chamber of Commerce, the Pleasant Valley Community society and the Farm Cooperative.

Other events that brought large numbers of people to the Farm the past year were also mentioned including the British War Relief carnival.

The farm, writes Mary Bromfield, "is a very happy kind of place, and a happy kind of house and our friends come and go, making for us the kind of life we have always wished for."

She reminisces over her first visit to Pleasant Valley where she saw the farm that was eventually to be her home after so many years spent in France. It was a snowy day, she said, and "there was about the place a sense of well-being and snugness."

The writer mentions too the Bromfield's former home in Senlis, France, 30 miles from Paris, which the family left four days before "The Peace" of Munich. The house today, writes Mrs. Bromfield, "stands" in a ruined garden, the roof shattered by shells, the windows blown out and everything useful that we had left there taken over by the Germans, after the Senegalese."

The war sent the family "back to America for good," she writes, adding that the los sof their home in France "would have hurt us much more if it had not been for the new adventure of Malabar Farm."

She tells of the "fun and excitement" had by the entire family over planning the inside of the house. "We decided," said Mrs. Bromfield, "that each member of the family, including the youngest child, should plan and decorate his or her own room."

In designing their new Ohio farm home Mrs. Bromfield said the family called upon Mansfield's "Louis Lamoreux, an architect of great knowledge and taste, who also by great good luck wanted to build the house."

"Eventually the outside of the house became a kind of museum of Ohio architectural detail," Mrs. Bromfield writes. "For instance the east entrance trellis-work is from the Ezra Nicholson house in Lakewood; the west entrance door-frame from the F. O. Treat house in Geauga county, the pilasters, and the sunburst over the main entrance of a design most elaborate and elegant, executed simply by the woodworkers of Twinsburg, are from the famous Taft house in Cincinnati."

Two rooms, the dining room and living room, became vague, nostalgic copies of the same rooms in the house in France. This was partly through homesickness and partly because most of our furniture was French, having been by a miracle of good luck brought back before the Germans and Senegalese moved in."

In describing other rooms of the house Mrs. Bromfield alludes to the sitting room as "a cozy farm room where it is possible to relax in any sort and condition of farm clothes."

flags so that they can transport goods into war zones which are barred to American-flag ships under the neutrality act.

2. Define combat zones instead of leaving this to the discretion of the president, as in the present law.

3. Prohibit either convoying of ships or American patrols in waters classed by belligerents as being in theaters of war.

Both Sen. Taft (R., O.), chairman of the non-interventionist bloc, and Sen. Wheeler (D., Mont.) are expected to return to Washington soon, and may take an active hand in framing a counter-policy.

Sen. Gillette (D., Ia.) declared that the president's policy violates provisions of the lend-lease act and that the president himself should go to congress for amendatory legislation.

Strong administration supporters such as Sen. Pepper (D., Fla.) declared that congress will overwhelmingly back the president. While some members of congress expressed doubt as to just what Mr. Roosevelt meant by saying raiders would be shot in "defensive waters," Pepper said facts and circumstances will mark their limit.

"I would say generally that our defensive waters mean the western hemisphere and adjacent waters," he said. "The fact and circumstances must be considered in each case. The Atlantic ocean is our front yard.

From there the family started for West Point, O., where a relative Charles Baker, had settled. They came to Mansfield on the Baltimore and Ohio railroad and then went on to West Point by ox cart.

Mrs. Schwert, her brothers and sisters, attended school at West Point and at the time their father purchased the present farm home they were grown men and women.

NAZIS ATTACK CONVOY, CLAIM 22 SHIPS SUNK

Hitler High Command Says Raid Continuing; U. S. War Supplies Thought Hit.

Other Nazi quarters said the progressing U-boat attack on a Britain-bound convoy in the North Atlantic was an eloquent answer to Mr. Roosevelt.

The German high command's communiques indicated that the convoy assault began at least a day ago, but still was continuing. It said the U-boats up to date had sent 22 ships totalling 134,000 tons to the bottom of the North Atlantic.

"Two other steamers of 11,000 tons were torpedoed and may be considered lost," the high command said.

"The enemy convoy is still being further attacked."

The report dealt with perhaps the biggest convoy attack in the history of the war.

At the same time Italy also announced new submarine raids in the Atlantic. Premier Mussolini's high command credited a Fascist underseas craft with sinking a large oil tanker and probably destroying a 5,450-ton freighter.

Hitler himself was busy addressing an appeal to the German people for winter relief funds, in which he declared that success "unheard of in world history" was rewarding the German soldiers' sacrifice "in blood, sweat, worries and privations."

The Berlin radio, commenting on Mr. Roosevelt's speech, asserted:

"Roosevelt's provocations with which he tries to slap Germany in the fact naturally leave Germany cool and calm. . . . His entire speech was an attempt to burden Germany now and for the future with all guilt."

In his momentous broadcast, Mr. Roosevelt disclosed he had instructed U. S. warships to sink on sight any German or Italian raiders entering waters vital to American defense.

The president's warning to Berlin and Rome came as Moscow reports told of bloody setbacks for Adolf Hitler's invading legions on the central Soviet front.

The Germans lost today their last chance to equal Napoleon's 1812 schedule of 83 days for the Warsaw-to-Moscow push.

The Red army newspaper, Red Star, asserted that Nazis were being driven westward toward Smolensk at a rate of from seven to 10 miles a day in one of Marshal Semeon Timoshenko's defense zones.

Berlin military sources, however, expressed belief that the German high command soon would announce Nazi victories in the battle-torn middle sector and along the southern front as well.

The military situation at Leningrad itself was clouded Soviet sources declared approaches to both that second city of the U. S. S. R., and Kiev, the Ukrainian capital, were carpeted with German dead.

British Royal Air Force bombers returned to the aerial offensive against Germany overnight after Wednesday night's heavy attack on northern Italy. Berlin sources said the north German constal region was raided and one raider was shot down.

Luftwaffe planes struck at England. The London government said some bombs were dropped, mainly in the eastern coastal areas.

Restoration of labor peace in Oslo, the capital of German-occupied Norway, was reported by the official German news agency, DNB, following the firing squad execution of two union leaders.

By contrast, reports reaching Sweden from Oslo declared the spirit of revolt against the German-supported Quisling government was rising swiftly in Norway and that a gigantic conflict appeared imminent.

Many new arrests were reported, and it was said that the Norwegian trade unions, with about 350,000 members, were on edge for a clash with the Nazis, inflamed by Wednesday's firing-squad execution of two labor leaders.

British Report Dutch Ship Sunk

LONDON—(INS)—Reuters (British) news agency today circulated a dispatch reporting that a German raider operating in the Pacific, 1,000 miles west of the Panama Canal, had sunk the Dutch motorship Kota Nopan, a vessel of 7,322 tons.

According to Reuters, the vessel was en route to the United States with a cargo of rubber, tin and palm oil when it was sent to the bottom by the Nazi raider.

The dispatch also stated the raider had threatened other vessels in the Pacific far off the west coast of South America.

generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's Chinese national government. Mr. Roosevelt's broadcast was interpreted as the forerunner of a shooting war likely to start at any moment.

In London, Lord Halifax, the British ambassador to Washington, said every Briton had been "greatly heartened" by Mr. Roosevelt's no-trespass warning to the Axis. He called it "the most practical example of the help in practical form that the United States is prepared to give us and those fighting with us."

Fascist circles close to the Rome government asserted they understood President Roosevelt had ordered the American navy to fire on German and Italian warships in mid-August and therefore that the speech disclosed nothing new.

Authoritative sources in London left official comment for Prime Minister Churchill himself, the prime minister was asleep when the president spoke at 9 p. m. EST (3 a. m., British summer time).

The London Daily Express said the president's pledge to protect ships of any nationality engaged in commerce in American defense waters was "an immense step in the business of getting American arms to these shores."

The paper said the Germans undoubtedly would reply by charging Roosevelt "with all the crimes in the calendar . . . but they will not deter him from his purpose which is now clearly revealed as full support by the American fleet of the British navy, an invincible protection of the sea route between the U. S. A. and Britain. . . . The president had spoken. We await Hitler's reply."

The Daily Sketch said the president "minced no words" in the "strongest and most important state pronouncement made by America in this war."

At Tokyo Koh Ishii, Japanese cabinet information bureau spokesman, said Japan adhered to the general principles of freedom of the seas, but would make no further comment.

The Free French radio station in French Equatorial Africa said Roosevelt had "thus thrown down the gauntlet and it is now up to Germany to decide whether it wants war with the United States or not."

AAA RELEASES 55,000 ACRES FOR FARM USE

More Lenient Program to Put Additional Acreage In Richland to Crops.

A more lenient federal AAA farm program will release more than 55,000 acres of Richland county land in 1942 for production of food crops under the national defense program, Guy L. Taylor, county AAA chairman, said today.

The new farm program will place more emphasis on soil conserving practices and less on acreage restrictions, permitting farmers to step up their production of pork, food crops, poultry and eggs, Taylor said.

In order to plant more acres in food crops, farmers will have to increase their land conservation practices by about one-half. Requirements will include the use of lime and fertilizer and planting of grass and hay crops to return fertility to the soil and keep it from washing down hills into creeks.

"During the first World war, the nation produced food for the world at the cost of wearing out our land, but this time we are going to save the land as we produce," Taylor said.

Under this year's AAA program, Richland county farmers were permitted to plant 186,284 acres in crops. About half the total acreage was allotted to soil-depleting, or "cash" crops, and the rest to non-depleting crops which include soy beans and hay.

The government will continue to restrict wheat and corn acreage to keep down the surplus, but the curtailmet will be less rigid.

Taylor said the township AAA organizations for 1942 will be set up at meetings the night of Sept. 23 in each of the county's 18 townships. Two days later township delegates will meet at AAA headquarters in Mansfield to elect a county committee of three members and a county chairman and secretary.

Checks for compliance with the farm program this year are expected to arrive in a few weeks, earlier than last year, the county chairman added.

RETURN CONFEDERATE FLAGS IN CEREMONY FOR NATIONAL UNITY

(By Special News Service)

LANSING, Mich. — A plea for national unity is sending home 13 of the Confederacy's last tattered battle flags, 76 years after the close of the war between the states.

The flags and three swords, captured by Michigan troops during the Civil war, will be given to southern states identified as their former owners at a ceremony here Sept. 20.

Gov. Murray D. Van Wagoner who will make the presentations, said a pageant would stress "national unity in this time of emergency."

Invited to receive the relics were the governors of the 11 states which composed the Confederecy—Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, South Carolina, North Carolina, Tennesse, Texas, Louisana, Georgia, Mississippi and Virginia—and two states represented in the Confederate government but which never seceded from the Union, Missouri and Kentucky.

While several of these states have no claim to the relics, Gov. Van Wagoner said it was decided to ask all to take part in the celebration. Virginia will come away with the most flags, three, while North Carolina will get two.

Return of the relics was authorized by the state legislature at its last session, making Michigan one of the last of the northern states to take this action. States which still officially possess Confederate flags include Wisconsin and Iowa.

Increased sales of retail goods continued to boost Richland county's sales tax receipts during the final week of August when collections amounted to $15,142 as compared with $10,134 for the corresponding week last year, the state treasurer's report showed today.

The county's collections to Sept. 1 totaled $176,502, a gain of $96,098 over the first eight months of 1940.

State-wide receipts for the same period this year amount to $39,681,649, an increase of more than $8,000,000 over 1940.

'Go No Further,' President Warns

STERN WARNING to Nazi Germany that the United States will continue to defend its historic policy of battling for freedom of the seas climaxed the address delivered last night by President Roosevelt, in which he spoke as commander in chief of this nation's military forces.

Full responsibility for aggressive action was placed on Hitler's Nazi forces and attacks on the Greer and other American ships were termed "acts of piracy, legally and morally, in violation of long established international law."

Whatever doubt may have previously existed as to the attitude of the United States in the matter of protecting shipments on the seas designated as the Western Hemisphere's defensive waters was cleared by the president's statement that hereafter any German submarines or surface raiders that enter these waters will do so at their own peril, and that our patrolling vessels and planes will protect all merchant ships within these defensive areas.

"We are keeping our feet on the ground," said the president. "We are not becoming hysterical and we are taking a long-range point of view. . . . We have sought no shooting war with Hitler—we do not seek it now . . . the aggression is not ours, it is Nazi Germany's."

Place was found in the address for recital of Nazi-inspired activities in this country and of plots for overthrow of South American nations—all designated as a part of the Nazi design to gain domination of the seas and later to impose Hitlerism upon this hemisphere.

"Our navy can give effective protection only as long as the British navy survives," the president solemnly warned. "These are not abstract theories but cruel, relentless facts. The time for active defense is now. It is time to say, 'You shall go no further!' "

While no reference was made to repeal of the neutrality act the entire talk carried the thought of active co-operation with the nations opposed to the Axis powers, with the positive statement: "No act of violence or intimidation will keep us from maintaining intact two bulwarks of defense: First, our line of supply of material to the enemies of Hitler and second, the freedom of our shipping on the high seas."

After last night's speech there can be no doubt that America's defense and aid program must be keyed to a higher pitch than has thus far been attained. We are at least in the war against piracy in the vast expanse of waters "deemed necessary to our defense."

Defense Waits While Unions Clash

ANOTHER of organized labor's jurisdictional squabbles is being enacted in Lorain, where 1,100 employes of the American Shipbuilding company are idle because of a CIO strike after an election, under National Labor Relations Board auspices, in which AFL won exclusive bargaining rights.

This plant, like a number of others that have been hampered by strikes, has been working on ships essential to the national defense program, and the strike is against a ruling of NLRB which gives exclusive bargaining rights to the AFL.

Contention of the CIO strike leadership in Lorain is that the election won by AFL involved all seven Great Lakes shipyards of the company—as had previously been agreed upon—but that CIO is dominant in the Lorain plant and refuses to be represented by AFL in collective bargaining.

Meanwhile there has been considerable violence, a court injunction restricting pickets, expense to city and county in attempting to maintain order, and growing bitterness among rival unionists.

Here is an instance in which the weakness of the National Labor Relations Board is evident. The board conducts an election to determine majority wishes as to bargaining rights, issues a ruling based on results of the election—to which the company is compelled to conform—and then sits back complacently and announces that it cannot prevent a strike by the losing side, or guarantee the safety of men who desire to work.

As the Lorain Journal points out: "The prestige of the federal government's labor program is at stake. Washington has taken the authority. With authority goes responsibility. No one else has the authority and therefore can't assume responsibility. What's Washington going to do about it?"

And what, it may also be asked, are the American people going to do about such conditions when the fate of the nation hangs in the balance.

Paying Community Fund Pledges

THIS is the time of year when many contributors to Mansfield's Community Fund pay a quarterly or semi-annual installment—with the same regularity that they meet other obligations.

Some pay their entire subscription in advance, others find it more convenient to make payment in quarterly installments—and either plan meets the requirement of having the steady flow of money needed to carry on the work of various agencies which share in Community Chest funds.

There are a few, however—fortunately very few—who subscribe regularly to the Community Fund and afterward disregard their obligation to make payment . . . not because of inability but apparently because of some peculiar quirk which makes them want to appear as liberal givers, as long as it doesn't cost them anything.

To the credit of Mansfield it may be said that a very large percentage of pledges to the Community Chest are promptly and willingly paid—thus making it possible to continue the activities of the various welfare, humanitarian and character building agencies partially sustained by these contributions.

As the remark was overheard by an Atchison Globe reporter, it was like this: "No, sir, I never attended the University of Illinois. I learned to drink back in my old home town in Indiana."

They say the income tax blanks for earnings under $3,000 are to be made "awfully simple"—although the increase may be simply awful.

It looks as if appeasement may work with the Finns. They have no apparent desire to annex Russia.

It seems to be the Nazi idea that our Atlantic fleet is becoming very unpacific.

The test of government, like anything else, is whether it works.

SOME DAY HE WON'T HAVE TIME TO STOP

Defense Jobs for Blind Workers

—By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—The ill wind which made national defense necessary has blown more good into the lightless lives of some of the nation's blind than into any other quarter.

The movement which made this possible started years ago, when national defense was hardly a drop in the bucket. Then it was only an idea in the mind of man who is himself blind—Robert B. Irwin, executive director of the American Foundation of the Blind.

Irwin asked himself why, with Uncle Sam spending millions annually for supplies, some of this should go for purchase of products made by blind persons. Five years of hurling this question at Congress by Irwin and M. C. Migel, president of the foundation, finally resulted in passage of the Wagner-O'Day act, providing for the government purchase of blind-made products.

Until two years ago not a cent of government money had gone for things made by those unfortunates doomed to spend their days in darkness. But with the way open, Clifton E. Mack, director of procurement, launched on a program of buying.

IN THE first three months, orders distributed through the National Industries for the Blind to 22 worshops amounted to only $8,000. The workshops had to regear their production to government needs. Once that was done, it began to appear that blind workers would benefit by government orders amounting to about $800,000 a year. Then came national defense and no story is more amazing than what happened in the workshops of the blind.

Now 53 "factories" manned by thousands of blind workers in 28 states are turning out products for Uncle Sam to the tune of about $3,000,000 a year. On Mack's desk lies an order from the army for 2,000,000 pillow slips. When Uncle Sam pays the bill it will put about $650,000 in the tills of the blind worshops.

The worshops' lists of products are expanding daily and now include oil-treated mops, dry mops, brooms and mattresses.

Precaution after precaution has had to be taken under the law to prevent persons from exploiting blind labor. One provision now is that the blind in any shop must do 75 per cent of the total work on all products and another requires all shops to keep "eye record cards" to be certain that all workers come under the Social Security board definition of blindness.

MACK has become one of the most enthusiastic supporters of the program, not only because of the primary results, but the secondary as well.

"Providing the mere mechanism of 'gainful occupation' is not sufficient," he says. "It is upon the bare framework of a sightless existence that we have given to the blind a full-fledged consciousness of living—a vital sense of participation, of giving, cooperating and contributing their full share to our preparedness program."

As for the quality of the work, Mack refers to a visit he made to one of the workshops in Charlottesville, Va. There, he says, 40 blind men were working tirelessly on mattresses for the army and navy.

"These men," says Mack, "had been trained so expertly that not one mattress had to be rejected out of that order."

That is something of a record, for Uncle Sam's specifications are strict and the eyes of the army and navy inspectors sharp for the most minute flaws.

HOSPITALITY HOUSES are all very well in their way. So are dances, table tennis games and imported pianos. But they won't develop or maintain military morale . . . or save democracy."

Popular statements? Just about as popular as a dose of hives. But don't blame them on me. Major General Ernest D. Peek, commanding general of the Ninth Corps Area . . . sound and seasoned veteran of Uncle Sam's fighting line . . . is responsible. And he'll need to be both if said remarks get around.

Obviously, the General does not believe that you can make Patriots out of husky young Americans by treating them first like Panty-Waists. Naturally, being a woman and a mother, I'm a bit on the softy side. Yet, looking back over plenty of years to the army post where I was born . . . seeing, through the dust of those years the type of male that kept this country on the map . . . I'm wondering if the General hasn't something on his side.

Out of the sunrise or sunset they'd come riding . . . battle-bronzed battlers taking their cavalry horses down to the bay for a swim. Splendid young scrappers, tough as they came—rarin' to go, every last one of them. No Mama's Darlings in that outfit. Half of them wore scars, barely healed . . . cute little memos of some tangle with the Indians in the bush . . . or an impromptu argument over some poker deal. "Hospitality Houses" for THEM? Might's well have tried to play "Ring-around-a-rosy" with a bunch of Head Hunters! But they had what it took to keep Democracy a Going Business . . . and, believe me, it took plenty!

Fifty years ago. And now we're looking at the worst rumpus America, or any other part of the world, has ever seen. So what are we doing about it? We're organizing "entertainment committees" . . . enlisting "camp hostesses." Sending flocks of pretty girls out by the trainful. All of which sounds perfectly ducky, of course. But is this serious business or is this the Annual Picnic of the Ladies' Aid Society with a Garnet Stickpin Prize or some embroidered suspenders for the boy who can pitch farthest in the horseshoe-throwing contest?

No. I'm not kidding. Never was more serious in all my life. Or, to be honest, more worried. For, just between us, I'm beginning to wonder if this snookum-ookums technique isn't symbolic of something that's both weak and rotten in our whole line-up.

Time was when a kid did his duty by his nation without any guilt-edged compensations. He might not have liked it—chances were he didn't. But there was the job, and someone had to tackle it. So he was elected. And that attitude applied to lots more than shooting Sioux. It applied to all the chores which decent citizens, male or female, were supposed to do for their country and their homes, without praise or reward.

No one thought such service was remarkable, then. It was just part of the price you expected to pay for being an American. But now—

Well, fill in the blanks for yourself.

Condolence to Miss America.

Another girl has won the coveted but dubious title of "Miss America" in Atlantic City's annual display of pulchritude and epidermis.

Theoretically she is the most beautiful girl in this nation, where beautiful women are the rule rather than the exception. Actually there are doubtless many others who outclass her.

We are not certain Miss LaPlanche is to be congratulated upon her honor. Rather, we are inclined to pity her, because the paths of so many beauty winners have been strewn with disillusionment, heartache and misfortune.

The girl publicized as the most beautiful immediately becomes the prey of selfish, mercenary individuals bent only upon exploiting her to their own advantage. Unless she happens to be extremely level headed, with plenty of brains in addition to beauty, she is apt to regret the day she sought the title "Miss America."—Ohio State Journal.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Braintruster Cohen May Resign, Corcoran Jockeying to Return

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—The reams and reams of Washington's official handouts have not announced it but Ben Cohen, other half of the famous braintrust team, is planning to resign.

Ben Cohen is not nearly as famous as his partner, Tom Corcoran, but his work will probably live longer. It was Ben who locked himself up in a room in the Carlton hotel for 44 hours until he pounded out the first draft of the Securities Act, first major crusading legislation passed by the New Deal and one law which even its enemies now agree has helped to reform Wall Street.

It was Ben Cohen also who wrote the law regulating the Stock Exchange, the Holding Corporation Act, and much of the reform legislation for which Roosevelt's enemies criticized him so severely, but which Willkie in the last campaign pledged to keep on the statute books.

When Tom Corcoran stepped out of the government last winter, he tried to persuade Cohen to go with him. But the tall, scholarly retiring braintruster refused. He had no stomach for private law practice, was eager to aid in the defense program. Since then he has helped formulate plans to meet the electric power shortage, went to London as legal aid to Ambassador Winant and declined an appointment as a member of the Securities and Exchange Commission.

For the present, Ben's plans are indefinite. He intends to take a short rest, the first in years. Then he may train to be a radio technician and enlist in the British forces.

Corcoran Wants Back.

MEANWHILE, Corcoran, now one of the busiest and most successful attorneys in Washington, is eager to get back into government harness again.

He has his heart set on the vacant solicitor generalship and is making strenuous efforts to land the post.

The president, personally very fond of the dynamic one-time braintruster, would gladly appoint Corcoran. But senate leaders have strongly advised against it. They warned that Corcoran's confirmation would precipitate a furious factional fight among Democratic senators that would be inadvisable at this time.

But Corcoran, not discouraged, is making strenuous undercover efforts to win the prize.

He admits there probably would be a bitter row, but claims that in the end he would be approved. Some of the leaders do not deny this, but they contend that the need for party unity is so great that the battle should not be forced.

President's Mother.

SARA DELANO ROOSEVELT thought the man to whom she proudly referred to as "My son, the President" was capable of doing anything he set his mind to; and the president would have done anything he could to satisfy her wishes.

But one favor he could not grant, despite his high office. Because of its intimate character, the story was kept a secret by the few who knew it, but now that the gracious mistress of Hyde Park has passed on, it can be told.

During the Czechoslovak crisis early in 1939, the president was conferring with advisers when a secretary interrupted with word that his mother was calling from New York. The president picked up the phone, inquired, "Yes, mother?"

Mrs. Roosevelt was in a state of high excitement. There was some difficulty over a friend who had come to this country from Europe. He wanted to remain until he was certain it would be safe for him to return, but the state department was refusing to grant an extension of his visa. Couldn't the president do something?

"I'm sorry, mother," he replied, "but I'm afraid I can't help you on this."

An excited buzz of conversation came through the phone. It might be dangerous for the friend to return. Wasn't the president the highest official of the government and couldn't he do something?

Roosevelt glanced helplessly at those about him. Then, with a patient smile, he again addressed the phone.

"Mother," he explained, "it's against the law."

This was one door even the president of the United States could not open for his mother or anybody.

Snow Plows Already.

DONALD NELSON was showered with congratulatory messages on his deserved elevation to OPM priorities chief, but one message almost floored him. It came from Nelson's close friend, James S. Adams, chief of the OPM automobile, railroad and agricultural equipment section.

"In congratulating you on your new job," wrote Adams, "I'm sending along a little reminder of one of the things you will be up against. Read the enclosed telegram which I received this morning."

From the window in Nelson's fifth-floor office white-clad figures could be seen playing tennis under a hot sun on public courts across the street. The temperature hovered in the low 90's. A shirt-sleeved policeman on the street corner mopped his steaming brow. But the telegram in Nelson's hand, from a Philadelphia machinery distributor, read:

"When are you going to make it possible for me to get some snow plows? I would a damned sight rather be bombed by Hitler than starved out by priorities."

Redtape Smasher.

H. W. BRYANT, dollar-a-year OPM steel expert on leave from the Youngstown Sheet & Tube company, can tell you all about the maddening tortures of red tape. He got his initiation in one of the elevators of the block-long Social Security building, where the OPM offices are located.

In the recent OPM reshuffle, Bryan't office was moved from the fourth to the second floor. In the confusion, his typewriter was overlooked and to save time he picked up the machine, carried it to the nearest battery of elevators and boarded the first car going down. The car started but suddenly stopped, midway between the fourth and third floors.

"What are doing with that machine?" demanded the buxom female operator.

"I'm taking it to my new office," said Bryant. Whereupon the operator gave him a sizzling dressing down for violating rules in not using a freight elevator at the opposite end of the building, and wound up by jerking the car back to the fourth floor and ordering Bryant to get off.

Bryant did not move. Fixing the hefty operator with an icy eye he said, "Now you stop this foolishness. You take me to the second floor and make it snappy."

The operator did.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Dancers of the concert stage do not take ballroom dancers very seriously, although they admire the salaries the better ballroom dancers earn. As one well known interpretative dancer said to me the other day: "What are ballroom dancers anyway? The girl wears a beautiful gown, and the man lifts her. They haven't contributed a thing since the Castles began the fad 25 years ago."

I would not go so far as to say that, but the trend in dancing in the more exclusive night clubs, particularly the Rainbow Room, during the last 20 months has been toward a more classical, interpretative vein.

The first of these I noticed—at this same rendezvous—was Jack Cole and his East Indian classic done to a jazz tempo. Cole had studied under Ted Shawn and Ruth St. Denis, and when he brought his Oriental style of presentation to Mr. Rockefeller's roof, he was well received.

SINCE then, though not necessarily in this order, I have seen Fernandez and the beautiful Monna Montes of the Met; Chandra Kaley and his dancers, similar in a sense to the Cole dancers; and Agnes de Mille and Hugh Laing, noted for their comedy and choreographic inventiveness.

This trend seems a rational and a logical move. It is too bad that Miss Montes, who refuses to leave the Met, must therefore sacrifice a great deal of pleasure and also a lot of money in being unable to follow a career that can take her into such places as the Rainbow Room at a cute salary. She likes night clubs, but she loves the Met more. I remember this young woman when she first started out: I believe that I even saw her first dancing appearance in New York. It was in the Village at Ben Collada's El Chico. Her rare beauty and grace won her a prompt acclaim, and the next season she was at the Metropolitan.

Now her former partner, Fernandez, has a new partner, Juanita Deering, whom I have not seen but who is said to be very good.

I THINK it is a good thing that a more interpretative and a more classical form of dance is coming into the clubs because—well, why should someone like Monna Montes be seen only on Sunday evening at the Met? Why shouldn't she be seen every night, by changing audiences, and why shouldn't she reap the proper remuneration? It is of course her own affair but I hope she understands what she is doing and I hope too that the Met is properly appreciative of her talents.

Among dancers of this "new order" New Yorkers will see this fall and winter are Foster Fitz Simons and Miriam Winslow, who recently returned from a slam-bang South American tour and who are famous for their comedy gifts: Ruth Page and Bently Stone, well known to the classical stage, and Charles Weidman and Doris Humphreys who give entire productions and revues at their own theater-school in New York . . . Weidman is noted also as a solo artist and a gifted comic.

A Farmer's Diary

Peaches Are Ripe

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

A NEIGHBOR who owns a large fruit farm, just east on the rim of our valley, has a bumper crop of peaches now. Last week, on two different days, I went to see his display.

Imagine more than half a thousand bushel baskets of peaches side by side on the ground around a sales tent—a little sea of scarlet and yellow and pink with alternating waves of light and shadow playing over it, and an aroma to tantalize any appetite!

Each measure was heaped high, shaken down and running over. I remarked about the generous fullness of the baskets to the orchardman who had seated himself at the edge of the tent where he could watch the steady stream of cars that came to get fruit, and parked beneath the young walnut trees.

"That's why you see so many people coming here to buy," he said quietly. "They get good fruit and a heaping bushel. I like to purchase that way myself and it makes anybody feel good to see customers go away satisfied. They'll be sure to come back next year."

"How did you get started in the fruit business?"

"Well — about 16 years ago there was 30 acres for sale here that nobody wanted. It had gullies as deep as I am tall and the slope was so poor it wouldn't raise poverty grass. I bought it and began planting trees. There's a kind of challenge to a man in making something out of what nobody else sees value in.

"My father liked the fruit business and taught me to like it. But I suspect I got started a little late. Then when I got the piece of land across the road, I helped plant 45 acres of apples and peaches there. They've borne a good many crops up to this time.

"Where that house stands, an old bachelor had a shack. He lived upstairs and had his mule in the shed below. I can see that old white mule's head with its monstrous long ears, sticking out of that upper door yet! According to what I've heard, he had white mule below, and some above, too. But that's heresay!

"I'd like to see all these hills in orchards or dark green forests. That way they're valuable to serve human needs. Peaches grow fast and are one of the most popular fruits for home canning. I'll sell 'em all right here."

NEWEST BOOK BY HITLER PLACED IN CIRCULATION

Library Lists 'My New Order' Among Latest Arrivals; Other Additions.

Hitler's strategy and plans for the future, as developed since his first book, "Mein Kampf," are set forth in "My New Order," a new title just received by the Mansfield Public Library.

The German dictator's story shows the method he has followed in fulfilling his "new order" for Europe and clearly presents his threat to the rest of the world. The book is entitled, with a commentary, by Raoul de Roussy de Sales.

THE UNIFORM OF GLORY by P. C. Wren is an entertaining novel about a "Free Frenchman's Night Out" and is full of sophistication, romance, humor and action. It is the story of a Legionnaire who was mistaken for his colonel, and who took full advantage of the situation for the amazing, almost incredible night, heedless of the consequences—until he met the girl who suddenly gave point and meaning to his life.

RIVER OF EARTH by James Still is a story of the hills and coal camps of Kentucky, seen through the eyes of a boy and told with realism and sensitive imagination. It is episodic, it takes things as they come along rather than trying to weave them into the tight framework of a plot, but it leaves a sharp impression of living and breathless Americana.

Lillian Prior's VALLEY OF EXILE presents the life and customs of the South Tyrol in a pathetic story of those Austrians who were given to the Italians after the first World war. In 1935, they were still unreconciled, clinging to their old ways and resisting the mixture of the two peoples. However, their real tragedies begin with the German conquest of Austria.

OTHER FICTION: HOSPITAL: QUIET PLEASE! by Lieferant; BAMBOO BLONDE by Hughes; FAMILIAR FACES by Rinehart.

Guy Pearce Jones has put into his book, TWO SURVIVED, the experiences of the two survivors of a British merchant-man which was torpedoed by a Nazi raider on August 21, 1940. The frail lifeboats were machine-gunned by the Germans but one boat, containing seven men, escaped. Seventy days later, after covering 3000 miles, it was washed up on an island in the Bahamas. Their story is a thrilling and amazing one.

REVEILLE IN WASHINGTON: 1860-1865 by Margaret Leech is the thrilling and astonishing story of the Civil war years in the nation's capital, a country town stretched in a muddy valley along the Potomac—in the days when our democracy faced its greatest crisis—an almost incredible picture of chaos, out of which came unity. Authentic and absorbing. Well illustrated.

Joseph Kesselring's new play ARSENIC AND OLD LACE is an hilarious murder farce. Two sweet old ladies living in Brooklyn, who offered elderberry wine to special callers, with their three nephews—a deranged one who thought he was Teddy Roosevelt, one who became engaged to the minister's daughter, and a third who stepped in from the underworld—produce in one night surprising complications involving 13 corpses.

Other non-fiction: COMPLETE BOOK OF GARDEN MAGIC by Biles; SO YOU'RE SEEING NEW ENGLAND by Laughlin; PATRIOTIC ANTHOLOGY; BEVIN AND CO., by Strauss; NO LIFE FOR A LADY by Cleaveland; THE VITAMINS; VITAMINS: WHAT THEY ARE AND HOW THEY CAN BENEFIT YOU by Borsook; MECHANICAL DRAWING by French & Svensen; ENGLISH HISTORY IN ENGLISH FICTION by Marriott; THE POET SPEAKS.

Jap Army Head

Danger of war between the United States and Japan appears lessened with the appointment by the Mikado, Emperor Hirohito, of Gen. Otozo Yamada, above, as virtual generalissimo of the Japanese army, responsible only to the Mikado. This move is seen as superseding general staff control of the military forces and strengthens the hand of Premier Prince Fumimaro Konoye's cabinet.

HERE'S TEXT OF FREE SEAS TALK BY PRESIDENT

Roosevelt Warns Italian and German Ships U. S. Will Shoot In Defense Area.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The text of President Roosevelt's address as prepared for delivery follows:

My fellow Americans:

The navy department of the United States has reported to me that on the morning of Sept. 4th, the United States destroyer Greer, proceeding in full daylight towards Iceland, had reached a point southeast of Greenland. She was carrying American mail to Iceland. She was flying the American flag. Her identity as an American ship was unmistakable.

Sub Made Attack.

She was then and there attacked by a submarine. Germany admits that it was a German submarine. The submarine deliberately fired a torpedo at the Greer, followed later by another torpedo attack. In spite of what Hitler's propaganda bureau has invented, and in spite of what any American obstructionist organization may prefer to believe, I tell you the blunt fact that the German submarine fired first upon the American destroyer without warning, and with deliberate design to sink her.

Our destroyer, at the time, was in waters which the government of the United States had declared to be waters of self-defense — surrounding outposts of American protection in the Atlantic.

In the north, outposts have been established by us in Iceland, Greenland, Labrador and Newfoundland. Through these waters there pass many ships of many flags. They bear food and other supplies to civilians; and they bear material of war, for which the people of the United States are spending billions of dollars, and which, by congressional action, they have declared to be essential for the defense of their own land.

The United States destroyer, when attacked, was proceeding on a legitimate mission.

If the destroyer was visible to the submarine when the torpedo was fired, then the attack was a deliberate attempt by the Nazis to sink a clearly identified American warship. On the other hand, if the submarine was beneath the surface and, with the aid of its listening devices, fired in the direction of the sound of the American destroyer without even taking the trouble to learn its identity—as the official German communique would indicate—then the attack was even more outrageous.

For it indicates a policy of indiscriminate violence against any vessel sailing the seas—belligerent or non-belligerent.

'This Was Piracy.'

This was piracy — legally and morally.

It was not the first nor the last act of piracy which the Nazi government has committed against the American flag in this war. Attack has followed attack.

A few months ago an American flag merchant ship, the Robin Moor, was sunk by a Nazi submarine in the middle of the South Atlantic, under circumstances violating long-established international law and every principle of humanity. The passengers and the crew were forced into open boats hundreds of miles from land, in direct violation of international agreements signed by the government of Germany.

No apology, no allegation of mistake, no offer of reparations has come from the Nazi government.

In July, 1941, an American battleship in North American waters was followed by a submarine which for a long time sought to maneuver itself into a position of attack. The periscope of the submarine was clearly seen. No British or American submarines were within hundreds of miles of this spot at the time, so the nationality of the submarine is clear.

Five days ago a United States Navy ship on patrol picked up three survivors of an American-owned ship operating under the flag of our sister republic of Panama—the S. S. Sessa. On Aug. 17 she had been first torpedoed without warning and then shelled, near Greenland, while carrying civilian supplies to Iceland. It is feared that the other members of the crew have been drowned. In view of the established presence of German submarines in this vicinity, there can be no reasonable doubt as to the identity of the attacker.

Merchant Ship Sunk.

Five days ago, another United States merchant ship, the Steel Seafarer, was sunk by a German aircraft in the Red Sea 225 miles south of Suez. She was bound for an Egyptian port.

Four of the vessels sunk or attacked flew the American flag and were clearly identifiable. Two of these ships were warships of the American Navy. In the fifth case, the vessel sunk clearly carried the flag of Panama.

In the face of all this, we Americans are keeping our feet on the ground. Our type of democratic civilization has outgrown the thought of feeling compelled to fight some other nation by reason of any single piratical attack on one of our ships. We are not becoming hysterical or losing our sense of proportion. Therefore, what I am thinking and saying does not relate to any isolated episode.

Instead, we Americans are taking a long-range point of view in regard to certain fundamentals and to a series of events on land and on sea which must be considered as a whole—as a part of a world pattern.

It would be unworthy of a great nation to exaggerate an isolated incident, or to become inflamed by some one act of violence. But it would be inexcusable folly to minimize such incidents in the face of evidence which makes it clear that the incident is not isolated, but part of a general plan.

Hit Nazi Designs.

The important truth is that these acts of international lawlessness are a manifestation of a design which has been made clear to the American people for a long time. It is the Nazi design to abolish the freedom of the seas, and to acquire absolute control and domination of the seas for themselves.

For with control of the seas in their own hands, the way can become clear for their next step—domination of the United States and the Western Hemisphere by force. Under Nazi control of the seas, no merchant ship of the United States or of any other American republic would be free to carry on any peaceful commerce, except by the condescending grace of this foreign and tyrannical power.

The Atlantic Ocean, which has been and which should always be a free and friendly highway for us, would then become a deadly menace to the commerce of the United States, to the coast of the United States and to the inland cities of the United States.

The Hitler government, in defiance of the laws of the sea and of the recognized rights of all other nations, has presumed to declare, on paper, that great areas of the seas—even including a vast expanse lying in the Western Hemisphere—are to be closed and that no ships may enter them for any purpose, except at peril of being sunk.

Sink Ships at Will.

Actually they are sinking ships at will and without warning in widely separated areas both within and far outside of these far-flung pretended zones.

This Nazi attempt to seize control of the oceans is but a counterpart of the Nazi plots now being carried on throughout the Western Hemisphere—all designed toward the same end. For Hitler's advance guards — not only his avowed agents but also his dupes among us—have sought to make ready for him footholds and bridgeheads in the new world, to be used as soon as he has gained control of the oceans.

His intrigues, his plots, his machinations, his sabotage in this new world are all known to the government of the United States. Conspiracy has followed conspiracy.

Last year a plot to seize the government of Uruguay was smashed by the prompt action of that country, which was supported in full by her American neighbors. A like plot was then hatching in Argentina, and that government has carefully and wisely blocked it at every point. More recently, an endeavor was made to subvert the government of Bolivia.

Could Multiply Instances.

Within the past few weeks the discovery was made of secret air landing fields in Colombia, within easy range of the Panama Canal. I could multiply instances.

To be ultimately successful in world mastery, Hitler knows that he must get control of the seas.

He must first destroy the bridge of ships which we are building across the Atlantic, over which we shall continue to roll the implements of war to help destroy him and his works in the end. He must wipe out our patrol on sea and in the air. He must silence the British navy.

It must be explained again and again to people who like to think of the United States navy as an invincible protection, that this can be true only if the British navy survives. That is simple arithmetic.

For if the world outside the Americas falls under Axis domination, the shipbuilding facilities which the Axis powers would then possess in all of Europe, in the British Isles, and in the Far East would be much greater than all the shipbuilding facilities and potentialities of all the Americas—not only greater, but two or three times greater.

Axis Could Outbuild Us.

Even if the United States threw all its resources into such a situation, seeking to double and even redouble the size of our navy, the Axis powers, in control of the rest of the world, would have the man power and the physical resources to outbuild us several times over.

It is time for all Americans of all the Americas to stop being deluded by the romantic notion that the Americas can go on living happily and peacefully in a Nazi-dominated world.

Generation after generation, America has battled for the general policy of the freedom of the seas. That policy is a very simple one—but a basic, fundamental one. It means that no nation has the right to make the broad oceans of the world at great distances from the actual theater of land war, unsafe for the commerce of others.

One peaceful nation after another has met disaster because each refused to look the Nazi danger squarely in the eye until it actually had them by the throat.

U. S. Won't Make Mistake.

The United States will not make that fatal mistake.

No act of violence or intimidation will keep us from maintaining intact two bulwarks of defense: First, our line of supply of materiel to the enemies of Hitler, and second, the freedom of our shipping on the high seas.

No matter what it takes, no matter what it costs, we will keep open the line of legitimate commerce in these defensive waters.

We have sought no shooting war with Hitler. We do not seek it now. But neither do we want peace so much, that we are willing to pay for it by permitting him to attack our naval and merchant ships while they are on legitimate business.

I assume that the German leaders are not deeply concerned by what we Americans say or publish about them. We cannot bring about the downfall of Nazism by the use of long-range invective.

But when you see a rattlesnake poised to strike, you do not wait until he has struck before you crush him.

Subs Are Rattlesnakes.

These Nazi submarines and raiders are the rattlesnakes of the Atlantic. They are a menace to the free pathways of the high seas. They are a challenge to our sovereignty. They hammer at our most precious rights when they attack ships of the American flag—symbols of our independence, our freedom, our very life.

It is clear to all Americans that the time has come when the Americas themselves must now be defended. A continuation of attacks in our own waters, or in waters which could be used for further and greater attacks on us, will inevitably weaken American ability to repel Hitlerism.

Do not let us split hairs. Let us not ask ourselves whether the Americas should begin to defend themselves after the fifth attack, or the tenth attack, or the twentieth attack.

The time for active defense is now.

Do not let us split hairs. Let us not say—"we will only defend ourselves if the torpedo succeeds in getting home, or if the crew and the passengers are drowned."

This is the time for prevention of attack.

If submarines or raiders attack in distant waters, they can attack equally well within sight of our own shores. Their very presence in any waters which America deems vital to its defense constitutes an attack.

In the waters which we deem necessary for our defense, American naval vessels and American planes will no longer wait until Axis submarines lurking under the water, or Axis raiders on the surface of the sea, strike their deadly blow—first.

That has been our policy, proved time and time again, in all our history.

Policy Still Applies.

Our policy has applied from time immemorial—and still applies—not merely to the Atlantic but to the Pacific and to all other oceans as well.

Unrestricted submarine warfare in 1941 constitutes a defiance—an act of aggression — against that historic American policy.

It is now clear that Hitler has begun his campaign to control the seas by ruthless force and by wiping out every vestige of international law and humanity.

His intention has been made clear. The American people can have no further illusions about it.

No tender whisperings of appeasers that Hitler is not interested in the western hemisphere, no soporific lullabies that a wide ocean protects us from him—can long have any effect on the hard-headed, far-sighted and realistic American people.

Because of these episodes, because of the movements and operations of German warships, and because of the clear, repeated proof that the present government of Germany has no respect for treaties or for international law, that it has no decent attitude toward neutral nations or human life—we Americans are now face to face not with abstract theories but with cruel, relentless facts.

One Determined Step.

This attack on the Greer was no localized military operation in the north Atlantic. This was no mere episode in a struggle between two nations. This was one determined step towards creating a permanent world system based on force, terror and murder.

And I am sure that even now the Nazis are waiting to see whether the United States will by silence give them the green light to go ahead on this path of destruction.

The Nazi danger to our western world has long since ceased to be a mere possibility. The danger is here now—not only from a military enemy but from an enemy of all law, all liberty, all morality, all religion.

There has now come a time when you and I must see the cold inexorable necessity of saying to these inhuman, unrestrained seekers of world conquest and permanent world domination by the sword—"You seek to throw our children and our children's children into your form of terrorism and slavery. You have now attacked our own safety. You shall go no further."

Normal practices of diplomacy—note writing—are of no possible use in dealing with international outlaws who sink our ships and kill our citizens.

Upon our naval and air patrol—now operating in large number over a vast expanse of the Atlantic Ocean—falls the duty of maintaining the American policy of freedom of the seas—now.

That means, very simply and clearly, that our patrolling vessels and planes will protect all merchant ships—not only American ships but ships of any flag—engaged in commerce in our defensive waters. They will protect them from submarines; they will protect them from surface raiders.

This situation is not new. The second president of the United States, John Adams, ordered the United States Navy to clean out European privateers and European ships of war which were infesting the Caribbean and South American waters, destroying American commerce.

The third president of the United States, Thomas Jefferson, ordered the United States Navy to end the attacks made upon American ships by the corsairs of the nations of North Africa.

My obligation as president is historic; it is clear, it is inescapable.

It is no act of war on our part when we decide to protect the seas which are vital to American defense. The aggression is not ours. Ours is solely defense.

But let this warning be clear. From now on, if German or Italian vessels of war enter the waters, the protection of which is necessary for American defense, they do so at their own peril.

Nazis Hold Responsibility.

The orders which I have given as commander-in-chief to the United States Army and Navy are to carry out that policy—at once.

The sole responsibility rests upon Germany. There will be no shooting unless Germany continues to seek it.

That is my obvious duty in this crisis. That is the clear right of this sovereign nation. That is the only step possible, if we would keep tight the wall of defense which we are pledged to maintain around this Western Hemisphere.

Step Is Grave.

I have no illusions about the gravity of this step. I have not taken it hurriedly or lightly. It is the result of months and months of constant thought and anxiety and prayer. In the protection of your nation and mine it cannot be avoided.

The American people have faced other grave crises in their history—with American courage and American resolution. They will do no less today.

The know the actualities of the attacks upon us. They know the necessities of a bold defense against these attacks. They know that the times call for clear heads and fearless hearts.

And with that inner strength that comes to a free people conscious of their duty and of the righteousness of what they do, they will—with divine help and guidance — stand their ground against this latest assault upon their democracy, their sovereignty, and their freedom.

THEATERS

Bud Abbott and Lou Costello top their previous laugh-getting record with a new fun-fest called "Hold That Ghost" opening Saturday at the Ohio. Their hangout this time is in a desert inn, the supposed cache for the swag of a slain gangster. With ghosts as their stooges the duo presents a series of side-splitting scenes aided by Ted Lewis and his band, the Andrews Sisters, Mischa Auer and Joan Davis. The Lewis aggregation and Andrews Sisters offer some new rhythms and the romantic interest is supplied by Richard Carlson and Evelyn Ankers.

"Wild Geese Calling," two-fisted drama of the early Northwest, opening Saturday at the Madison, gives Henry Fonda another role as great as Tom Joad in "The Grapes of Wrath." As a rugged lumberjack gripped by wanderlust he travels the wild country in his search for a friend, played by Warren William. En route to Alaska he marries a dance hall queen, and drama begins when he learns that his wife was William's former sweetheart. Joan Bennett plays the girl. The cast has Ona Munson and Barton MacLane. "Down In San Diego," is the second picture with Bonita Granville and Ray McDonald.

Echoes of the bootleg liquor era and days of the gangster chief are found in "Hit the Road," opening Friday at the Ritz. Co-starring the Dead End Kids with Gladys George, Barton MacLane and the Little Tough Guys the picture deals with the orphaned sons of slain gangsters who face a tough life once they are paroled from the reformed school. The 3 Mesquiteers are featured in "Gangs of Sonora," the second picture. The trio battle for justice against the rascal-commissioner of a western territory in a film that features Bob Livingston, Bob Steele and Rufe Davis.

The same warship used by Lord Kitchener in his famous expedition up the Nile to relieve Khartoum in the Sudan war was employed in the screen version of Alexander Korda's "Four Feathers," Technicolor adventure film showing at the Park. The ship, known as the Malik, in which Kitchener traveled up the Nile, has for years been the flagship of the Khartoum Yacht club. Filming of the picture took place in almost the same spot in the Sudan where Kitchener fought his great battle.

Tense melodrama of international intrigue and adventure, "The Saint's Vacation," opening Friday at the Majestic depicts the exploits of Simon Templar, alias "The Saint," enemy of crime. Hugh Sinclair plays the modern Robin Hood who operates outside the law in order to bring criminals to justice. The current picture deals with the complications that arise when he attempts to solve a mystery during a vacation in Switzerland. Sally Gray and Arthur McCrae are in the cast. Charles Starret is featured in "The Medico of Painted Springs," the second picture.

Jellied Salad Makes Colorful Luncheon Dish

Only a color photo could depict the eye appeal of Chicken and Vegetable Neapolitan—a layer of creamy-rich chicken mousse sandwiched in between two layers of tangy lime gelatin sparkling with crisp diced cucumber, celery, green pepper and brilliant bits of pimiento. This three-layer jellied salad is magnificent to behold and a thrill to eat! For party fare or extra-special family meals make your main attraction this delectable

Chicken and Vegetable Neapolitan

- 1 pkg. lime flavored gelatin
- 1 cup boiling water
- 1 cup cold water
- 1 cup finely diced celery
- 1 cup finely diced cucumber
- ½ cup finely diced green pepper
- ½ cup finely diced pimiento
- 2 tbsp. lemon juice

Dissolve lime gelatin in the boiling water. Add the 1 cup cold water. Pour a thin layer of gelatin in a deep loaf pan or mold. Mix the vegetables with the lemon juice. When the layer of gelatin has set, spread half the vegetables over the layer and cover with lime gelatin. Put in a cold place to jell.

- 2 eggs
- ¼ tsp. salt
- ½ cup irradiated evaporated milk
- ½ cup chicken broth
- 1½ tbsp. gelatin softened in
- ¼ cup water
- 2 cups cooked diced chicken
- ⅔ cup irradiated evaporated milk, thoroughly chilled

Beat the eggs. Add the salt, the ½ cup irradiated evaporated milk and broth. Cook over boiling water until mixture coats spoon, about 5 minutes. Add softened gelatin. Stir until completely dissolved. Add chicken and more salt if necessary. When this mixture is cold, whip the chilled milk until stiff. Fold the stiffly whipped milk into the mixture and spread over jellied vegetables. Set in a cold place to jell. When set, cover with remainder of vegetables and lime gelatin. Put in a cold place until set. When ready to serve, unmold by dipping in and out of warm water quickly. Turn onto a cold platter. Garnish with watercress. Yield: 8 servings.

Turkey or veal, or flaked tuna or salmon can be used instead of chicken in the center layer—they're pleasing combinations, too.

CAKE SAVER

If layer cakes are allowed to stand five minutes in the pans when they come from the oven, they will slip from the pans more readily. Always loozen the edges of the cake with a sharp knife. This can be done as soon as the cake is removed from the oven.

Correct Sitting Position Is Important

By MME. QUI VIVE

Said a commercial photographer, whose business it is to take pictures of pretty ladies: "Almost all professional models take graceful standing poses. They know what to do with their bones and their muscles. They look alive and vibrant. They're splendid and regal, assume engaging lines. But the one who appears really distinguished when sitting is a rare find. Too many of them slump, one way or another; the silhouette is not clear cut, but crimpy. A fold of flesh here, a poor line there."

Take a critical survey of your friends as they sit around at the next party you attend and you will discover that the gentleman knows what he is talking about. Sitting pretty just isn't being done. The average Young Thing who affects the debutante slouch folds up like a camp chair. Shoulders fall forward, a habit which deflates the chest, gives an awkward pose to the head.

Now and then a lovely creature sinks into a chair beautifully and gracefully, keeps her backbone on the job, arranges her hands, legs, feet and torso as they should be arranged. She is a treat to the critical eye. Hands are folded in her lap, with fingers intertwined or they rest easily on the chair arm. She crosses her ankles, but not her knees.

The wise girl will exercise body discipline, will be conscious of pose. She will not sit so that her feet have the sides resting on the floor. That's horrible. Feet should be placed fairly close together, the soles of the shoes never revealed. Knees should touch; that means that sprawling attitudes are avoided. Sprawling is a dreadful word, but no other word will do.

We wish to add, for the benefit of certain offenders of ladylike conduct, that there's no point in having the skirt pulled above the knees. Too often there is a display of bare skin above the stockings. Heavyweights must be especially mindful of sitting habits; poor posture makes them look thicker of build.

Sit far back in the chair seat. Keep that natural inward curve at the back of the waist. As soon as you lose that the upper portion of the torso folds, the abdominal muscles go slack and, if you are a calorie counter, you will have a little shelf below your belt.

Please do not perch on one side of the chair. Settle yourself comfortably, make an effort to be graceful and presentable. Carry the head high; the drooping chin is no help.

Good posture must be maintained at all times, standing, walking, sitting. If it is not the spinal column will not follow its natural course, one hip and one shoulder may be higher.

Gentlemen Gold-Diggers Pursue Girls

Dear Miss Fairfax:

Several of us girls go out on Sunday afternoon hikes with a certain club, and then cook supper over a fire at the end of the trail. There are several boys who always hang around while we do the cooking, and are always glad to eat what we prepare. They speak enthusiastically about how good everything tastes, but they never suggest buying the supper or doing any of the cooking. They have taken us to an occasional movie but that's all. We're disgusted with them and want to know how we can hint around that they ought to do their share.

Four Girls.

The best way to intimate to boys who display the talents of gold-diggers is to stop inviting them to eat with you. I really believe those young men aren't aware of being "close." The next time you are to go on the hike, you might hint that you're expecting them to furnish the next supper and also to prepare it over the campfire.

* * *

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I'm a girl of 17 years, and we've just recently moved to this neighborhood. In our old neighborhood I had many friends and always had a good time, but here I find it difficult to make acquaintances among the young people.

There are several boys and girls on my street I would like to know. How can I go about meeting them?

Lonely

I am sure this problem will solve itself if you will try to be patient. As you never had any trouble in the old neighborhood, and undoubtedly are an attractive girl, the boys and girls whom you'd like to meet are probably just as anxious to know you.

If you have any older brothers or sisters, perhaps they can arrange for you to meet these people. Your mother may be helpful also. There must be neighborhood activities, such as community centers, church clubs and, later on, when school starts again, the Parent-Teacher association.

Neighborhood families will call upon your people, and acquaintances will, of course, be made and will ripen in that way. When school re-opens in the fall, probably you'll find some of these boys and girls in your classes. One girl may always speak to another.

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I started going with Ellen when we were in high school, and I patiently waited for her till she finished four years at college. Then she wanted to take a position in the Government and work a couple of years before she marries.

She says she loves me, but what kind of a love is this which strings a man along from year to year? She even offers to release me if I am not satisfied with this arrangement, and I'm seriously considering it. I'm almost 30 years old and feel that if I ever marry, now's the time to do it.

I became acquainted with another girl in the last year who is less ambitious, and who acts as though she'd like to marry me. I've taken her out several times. Both these girls are 24 years old.

Bachelor

As you seem to be no nearer marrying Ellen than you were while waiting for her to take her college degree—and goodness only knows what she may decide to do when once she gets started on a government job!—perhaps it would be just as well to take her at her word and each of you go your several ways.

When Ellen is out of the picture, perhaps you'll discover that you love the less ambitious girl as much as you do the career lady.

Plenty of verve in this new junior frock by Marion Martin! For a little girl who is beginning to be "clothes-conscious." Pattern 9855 has youthful details in a scalloped front yoke, a set-in belt, and gathered fullness below both the yoke and the waistband. A rounded collar and long full sleeves gathered into a cuff give this young frock a tailored look. Or you can make it with a collarless round neckline and short sleeves, perhaps with the yoke, sleeves and back bodice in a contrasted shade. It's easily stitched up in a few hours. Mother, with the Sew Chart to guide you, wouldn't it make a nice "surprise" for a good little girl, especially in a big, colorful plaid?

Pattern 9855 may be ordered only in girls' sizes 6, 8, 10, 12 and 14. Size 10 requires 2⅛ yards 54 inch fabric.

Send 15c in coins for this Marian Martin pattern. Be sure to write plainly your size, name, address, and style number.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

"THIS STUFF is so old you can't reckon it," Jack had gone on. "It's all of this Western Hemisphere, too, and I have a notion there's some of it down in South America, where I'm going to spend most of my life. I'm going to learn how to read it and write it, and to adapt it to my own uses. I'm going to keep my own private diary in it, then nobody but you will ever be able to read it. That is, if you want to trail along with me and learn it."

I too had loved the study of languages, ancient and modern, but I had not reckoned on the difficulties of the task when I answered him in enthusiastic fashion, "I'd love to learn it, Jack."

"It won't be any picnic," he had warned me; and indeed I had found the task of learning it so laborious, and other courses of study so imperative in their demands, that my enthusiasm had rather "oozed out at my finger ends."

Recognizes Some Drawings

I now scanned the characters on the paper once more. I recognized Jack's touch in the queer characters, also some of the simpler drawings. But of the combinations I knew nothing; I realized that by myself I could make nothing of this page.

I racked my memory for something else. Was there anywhere among my possessions any clue to these characters? I remembered that when Jack had been studying the language, and I had "trailed along" with him, I had copied some of the characters in on old ledger.

But with a queer, embarrassed flush rising to my cheeks, even though alone, I remembered that the old ledger was no longer in existence.

All Mementoes Burned

With the feeling I always had had that Jack was my brother-cousin, I had cherished, even after my marriage to Dicky, my letters from him—innumerable chatty, voluminous epistles mailed from all over the Western Hemisphere—his photographs, the gifts he had given me and mementoes of our work together, such as the old ledger.

But after the almost tragedy following Jack's revelation of his long cherished love for me—upon his return from a long South American trip and while he still was in ignorance of my marriage to Dicky—I had followed up the reconciliation with my husband, after a bitter estrangement, by burning every memento of Jack I possessed.

Only Hope in "Dizzy"

Dicky had not asked me to do this, or even intimated he wished it. In fact, I never had told him about it. But any bride in love with her husband can understand the feeling which prompted me. Now, because of that old impulse, there was no means open to me to find out the meaning of the cryptic characters which I was sure Jack's hand had traced.

But perhaps there was! The thought came to me as if it were a sudden, bracing breeze. The crabbed old Professor Diswell, the "Dizzy," who had loved Jack as he might a son and tolerated me in that long past time as Jack's "sister-cousin" — I knew that if I could reach him and tell him of my delimma, he could solve the riddle of this paper for me.

Keeps Paper a Secret

This was something even my father could not accomplish without me. "Dizzy's" reputation for crustiness — for unapproachableness — was widespread. But I knew that he now lived in a secluded village in the Litchfield Hills of Connecticut.

My father might eventually reach him, but it would take precious time. Better for me, I told myself speciously, to keep my knowledge of the paper to myself.

With fingers that trembled and a distinctly guilty feeling, I tucked the paper in my writing portfolio and locked that in my bag, scarcely finishing before my father's summoning knock came upon the door.

I found him standing in the middle of the living room, a memorandum in his hand, evidently geared for action.

"Margaret," he said crisply, "when is Carolyn supposed to go back to Weirhampton?"

"The Authority on Authorities"

DON'T SELL CHEAPLY

Seldom will a finè bidder let you play a hand in a contract of 1-No Trump or two of a suit if he is the one whose pass would close the bidding, and he has a hand of about average strength in honors with a four-card or longer suit which might possibly bid at the two level. Experience has shown that re-opening the bidding in this spot pays in the long run. Knowing you are prepared to do it will enable your partner to make fairly strong passes upon occasion, rather than risk the danger of a doubtful overcall. When the opponents finally have passed the hand out, as far as they are concerned, at a very low contract, they have eliminated the danger of your overcall being caught between two strong hands, with a blank partner opposite you.

	♠ Q 9 6 ♥ A K 9 7 ♦ J 10 9 ♣ 8 7 4
♠ 5 2 ♥ Q ♦ A 6 4 3 2 ♣ A Q J 3 2	W. N. E. S.	♠ A J 8 7 3 ♥ 8 5 4 2 ♦ 8 7 ♣ 10 5
	♠ K 10 4 ♥ J 10 6 3 ♦ K Q 5 ♣ K 9 6

(Dealer: East. Both sides vulnerable.)

East	South	West	North
Pass	Pass	1 D	Pass
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♣	Pass
Pass	2 ♥

That heart bid was by Henry Chanin, great competitor from Atlanta, who had Mrs. Humphrey Wagar, another of Georgia's leading bridge stars opposite him. From East's pass, he knew she had a bit of strength, including something in hearts, the only suit not bid by the other side. And how right he was!

The spade 5 was led to the 6 and A—not a very good play by East, unless he was counting on a singleton by his partner. It made no difference, however, and anyway, he wanted to lead his partner's diamonds. The A won and a second diamond went to the Q. Hearts proved easy to drop in four rounds, since the singleton Q fell. Then the spade K, diamond K and Q and spade Q took tricks, giving Mr. Chanin 3-Hearts and he was willing to let West have the last two club tricks.

Tomorrow's Problem.

	♠ 6 ♥ 9 8 4 ♦ 8 7 6 5 ♣ K 8 4 3 2
♠ K 9 5 3 ♥ 2 ♦ Q J 10 2 ♣ J 10 7 5	W. N. E. S.	♠ J 10 8 2 ♥ K 10 6 5 ♦ 9 3 ♣ A Q 6
	♠ A Q 7 4 ♥ A Q J 7 3 ♦ A K 4 ♣ 9

(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

If East doubles South's 4-Hearts, West leads the club 5 to the K and A, and the club Q is led back, how should the hand be played?

BRIGHTEN THE HEARTH

You can improve the looks of a shabby brick hearth by giving it a good scrubbing with a stiff brush and hot, soapy water. Rinse with clear hot water and wipe as dry as possible. The next day cover with a coat of boiled linseed oil. This gives a protective covering, making cleaning easier.

HOROSCOPE

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Saturday, Sept. 13:

While some testimonies point to progress and prosperity, these may be endangered by lack of forethought, good management and clear insight into possibilities for future growth and stability. There is menace of legal entanglements, opposition from higher-ups, although certain elders may be depended upon for support and good counsel. Working for future rather than present profits and advantages is recommended. Care for the health.

If It Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is have much encouragement for future prosperity and enduring values, rather than any immediate returns for acumen and well-directed energy and enterprise. Work toward future goals and ambitions, but shun rash and impulsive moves and beware legal entanglements. Confer with faithful friends and elders rather than those who may be imbued with antagonism. Also safeguard all possessions, credits and investments, as well as health.

A child born on this day will have many talents and ambitions, with promise for future reaping rather than immediate successes. Elders will favor it, and it may be subject to legal and other oppositions.

Butterscotch Cream Filling.

3 tbsps. butter
½ cp. firmly packed brown sugar
3 tbsps. flour
Dish of salt
1 cp. milk
½ tsp. vanilla
½ cp. cream, whipped

Melt butter and brown sugar in top of double boiler over direct heat; remove from fire, add flour and salt and mix well. Place over boiling water. Add scalded milk gradually, stirring constantly until thickened and cook about 5 minutes. Remove from heat, add flavoring, cool. When cool, fold in whipped cream and spread on each piece of cake; roll into individual rolls, sprinkle with confectioner's sugar and serve. Makes 6 rolls.

GEN. JOHNSON: Charges 'Plot' to Get U. S. Into War

By GEN. HUGH S. JOHNSON

WASHINGTON—Perhaps I shall be accused of my old habit of harping too much on one string, but this is going to be another piece on SPAB, or the 1941 war industries board.

My excuses are: first, that from close personal war experience and years of study I know more about that subject than any other and (with becoming modesty) more than most people, second that, whether it is generally recognized or not, the welfare, defense and even the continuous existence of the American economic system depends as much on the success or failure of that board as on any other pricipal government body — including the army and the navy.

Johnson

The recent reorganization was certainly a step in the right direction. Mr. B. M. Baruch called it "a faltering step," but I know that he agrees with me that, in practical administration, it could prove to be effective.

I want to talk about unquestionable evidence of one of its faults upon which I have touched briefly before. The evidence is much clearer now. I refer to the shameful kilkenny cat-fight about the eastern gasoline "shortage or, more accurately, the alleged transportation shortage to the east from the oil fields.

Without warning, Mr. Ickes made the startling announcement that it existed, insisted on a flat 10 per cent cut in consumer use, and strong-armed the oil companies into agreeing to build a new pipeline to the east. He said the shortage was due to transferring tankships to the British.

Apparently Admiral Land, who is in charge of and supposed to know all about maritime transportation, didn't agree. Apparently he had not been consulted.

Mr. Pelley, head of the American Railway association, who should know all about tank cars didn't agree and it was made apparent that he hadn't been consulted either.

Mr. Leon Henderson, who is supposed to sit in the central clearing house on all such matters, also didn't agree in so many words. Diplomatically he didn't disagree, but a strict analysis of his testimony shows what amounts to disagreement. Whether it did or not, when the request for priority for the pipe came in SPAB wouldn't grant it on steel plates from which pipes are usually made. Apparently SPAB (pincluding Leon) had not been consulted either.

Finally, all this had to be churned out in public in a senate factfinding committee, which now has reached a conclusion that Mr. Ickes was wrong.

The government properly asks for unity in the country when apparently unity does not exist within its own house.

Now this happens to be a question of organization and administration within SPAB itself. Quite properly, the head of our merchant marine and our oil administrator, not to mention our finance director, Jesse Jones, and several other heads of our principal economic efforts, are not regular members of SPAB. There are two good reasons for this—one is that their interests are occasional and collateral, a second it that the board is big enough now.

But one great and succesful principle or World War One that is proved here to have been completely overlooked in this new shuffle is that these wielders of separate powers ought to undertake no action importantly invading the field of SPAB and SPAB could take no action invading their fields without first going into a huddle—sitting together with all principal government interests represented. If they can't agree which should be rarely, the final decision should go to the president or his selected delegate.

This kind of shindy adds nothing to and subtracts much from good administration, unity in government and unity among the people.

U. S. AIR FORCE REVEALS SECRET CONTROL PLAN

Purely Mechanical Device Detects Flight Path of Enemy Planes.

By RICHARD C. HOTTELET
(UP Staff Correspondent)

WITH THE SECOND ARMY IN LOUISIANA — The United States air force revealed today that it has a secret air control system unlike anything that either the British or the Germans now possess.

It is a portable and almost completely mechanical device to detect enemy bombers, determine their path of flight, and relay the information to command nerve centers. It requires no human observers.

The system will be used for the first time in the major phase of the big war games to begin here soon and by special permission of Lieutenant General Delos C. Emmons, commanding general of the air force combat command, another reporter and I were the first newspapermen to see it.

The British and the Germans depend on observers, with the aid of mechanical listening devices, to detect enemy planes, determine their course, plot their position and relay the information by telephone to interceptor command headquarters.

This new device of the United States' is a closely guarded secret but I am permitted to reveal that it consists of portable radio receivers which pick up engine noises of approaching planes, automatically integrate vital facts concerning their strength and direction of flight and transmit the information immediately by teletype to headquarters.

The receivers are manned only by maintenance crews.

Brigadier General Carlyle Wash told me that with the device interceptor planes can be ordered into the air in pursuit of enemy craft one minute after the radio receiver first picks up the sound of the approaching planes.

The entire air control center, with its delicate and intricate apparatus and its large tables can be packed, moved 400 miles and set up again within 24 hours. It fits into four army trucks.

General Emmons said that the interceptor system will be the major new device to be tested by the air force in the maneuvers.

Mansfield police cars from today on will let the public know they are fully equipped to render emergency first aid. American Red Cross first aid plates were installed on both front and rear of the city's four police cars this afternoon and whenever first aid is administered reports will be submitted by the department to Richland County chapter of the Red Cross, Police Chief Meade K. Bates said.

Mansfield's parking problem brings varied and sometimes unusual suggestions for solution. Mayor William J. Locke said today that one of the latest he had received was that merchants be given cards which would allow their customers 20 violations per month without penalty. The mayor put the suggestion in the same classification as another in which a motorist attempted to purchase ten violation tickets in advance.

Jack Berger, assistant secretary of the Richland County Auto club, all smiles again today, telling friends that his lost billfold has been returned. The billfold contained his driver's license (Berger issues them at the Auto club) and he spent a sleepless night or two, wondering whether or not he would have to issue himself a learner's permit and obtain his new license the hard way.

Three tax receipts which were issued by Richland county's second treasurer, S. B. Day, about 140 years ago were turned in today to Treasurer Charles Payne by Walter Long, Jefferson township. The oldest receipt in Long's collection was issued in 1830, approximately 16 years after the county government was organized. The others were for the years 1831 and 1832. Long said the receipts belonged to his grandfather, the late Samuel Long.

LINDBERGH IN BLAST AT FDR, BRITISH, JEWS

Boos, Cheers Greet Flier as Boisterous Crowd Hears Des Moines Speech.

DES MOINES, Ia. —(AP)— Charles A. Lindbergh contends the British, Jews and the Roosevelt administration are plotting to drive the United States into war.

His voice drowned out at times by the boos and cheers of a boisterous and heckling crowd, the flier declared at an America First rally last night:

"The three most important groups who have been pressing this country toward war are the British, the Jewish and the Roosevelt administration."

Before Lindberg reached the platform, the crowd heard—and cheered 11 distinct times—the broadcast of President Roosevelt's address.

Earl C. Jeffrey, America First field representative, who estimated the crowd at 8,500, said the conduct of the gathering was "the worst I have seen."

"It was a very small minority," he added. "It looked like an organized attempt to sabotage the meeting."

The "war agitators, 'Lindbergh said, have planned:

"First, to prepare the United States for war under the guise of American defense; second, to involve us in the war, step by step, without our realization; third, to create a series of incidents which would force us into actual conflict."

Terming England's position "desperate," he declared her geographical position "such that she cannot win the war by the use of aviation alone, regardless of how many planes we send her."

Except for American encouragement, he added, "I believe England would have negotiated a peace in Europe many months ago."

He said he could not condone "the persecution of the Jewish race in Germany," but added that the Jews, "instead of agitating for war, should be opposing it in every way, for they will be among the first to feel its consequences."

BELIEVES STATE PENALTY FREE

Sherwood Says Ohio Doesn't Expect To Pay For Going Over Wheat Quotas.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS—Charles L. Sherwood, state welfare director, says the state doesn't expect to pay any penalty for exceeding federal wheat quotas on crops produced on state farms, but Elmer F. Kruse, Ohio AAA director, replies that the quotas and penalties apply equally to all farm land.

"We have a letter from our Washington office stating that the wheat marketing penalties affect all farms, regardless of whether they are county-owned or privately owned," Kruse said. "I think that the state's farms would fall in the same classification as county-owned farms."

Sherwood said all produce of farms at the various state institutions was used to feed inmates and that Atty. Gen. Thomas J. Herbert had advised him to stand pat because he knew of no way the federal government could enforce the AAA restrictions against the state welfare department.

Marketing penalties of 49 cents a bushel apply to all wheat sold in excess of federal quotas, but would not affect that consumed by inmates of state institutions provided the state did its own grinding, Kruse said.

THREE OBSTACLES BALK PLAN FOR ARMY CANTONMENT IN OHIO

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—At least three obstacles stand in the way of Ohio getting an army cantonment, informed quarters said today.

First, a policy of the war department to stay within the present program unless the army's numerical strength is increased substantially.

Second, the cost of available sites is considered too high.

Third, residents are divided as to whether they want a camp.

This information came from war officers and Senator Harold Burton (R.-Ohio) who received many letters from civic organizations and farmers in the state where thousands of young men trained at Camp Sherman during the last war.

Merchants, with an eye to more business, advocated establishment of a cantonment. Farmers generally objected because they preferred to keep their land for growing crops.

The army wanted a camp in Ohio, informed officer said, but considered the price of sites prohibitive, particularly in the Chillicothe - Circleville area. Scores of locations throughout the country were surveyed several months ago.

Since then the cantonment program for the immediate future has been completed and the army says no more camps are needed unless the size of the military force goes far beyond the present 1,500,000 men.

Ohio was considered as a probable camp location when congress appropriated $15,000,000 for surveys but it was not included among 23 chosen sites.

Army officers emphasized that no additional construction or sites were contemplated at this time.

DRIVER FINED

Mansfielder Charged With Passing School Bus.

SHELBY — Vanus Heichel, of Mansfield, was fined $10 and costs in Mayor W. R. Morris's court today when he pleaded guilty of passing a school bus that had stopped to discharge a number of pupils on a county road south of the city.

Heichel told the court that he did not think the bus was going to leave pupils out. He said that it looked as though the bus was slowing down to make a left hand turn into another road.

Supt. C. G. Keck said today that the drivers of Shelby district school buses had been ordered to report all motorists who failed to stop for the buses when they were discharging school children at their homes in the country.

Last year a number of traffic accidents occurred involving school buses in the county when motorists failed to stop their cars for the school buses.

"Listen, pal, me and you is gonna have a man-to-mouse talk."

BROADWAY

—By Dorothy Kilgallen

You Can't Print That!

(Following are tales that can't be told with names, because they're too true to print. If you find in them any resemblance to actual characters, living or dead—you've probably guessed right!)

When Maxie and Josie were married a few years ago, even Broadway—hardened old Broadway—was slightly shocked. For Maxie was 40, and a confirmed crook, with three convictions and countless arrests on his police record, and two divorces and scores of conquests on his romance ledger.

Kilgallen

He was one of the boys, if you know what I mean. And if you knew him you'd say, rightly, that it would be nearly impossible to find a girl in the whole world who wouldn't be too good for him.

So when he married Josie even his underworld pals thought it was wrong. For Josie was 17, and the cutest, nicest kid you ever saw. She danced in a big musical show and went home to Washington Heights every night. One afternoon another girl in the show introduced Maxie to her after the matinee and he took them both to dinner.

And that was the way it happened. Love at first sight, for both of them.

Josie knew from nothing about the underworld. All she knew was that Maxie was a nice guy who spent money on her and didn't make passes at her like the young fellows she had dates with.

And so one bright morning they were married down in Maryland. And then a strange thing took place.

Something about that nice, sweet kid changed Maxie in a few days. Something brought out in him the little spark of good that's in everybody, and fanned it up to a real blaze of righteousness.

Maxie reformed, then and there. He sold his piece of a restaurant he used for a front, sold his piece of a couple of handbooks, and moved with Josie to California where he bought a chain of gas stations.

It was funny the way the mob found out about Maxie and Josie. A couple of old pals who went out there to see if Maxie was interested in a slightly shady proposition came back with the story. Maxie threw them out of the house.

But you can't print that, I told you, didn't I, that Josie never knew Maxie was anything but an honest good guy.

Residents Flee Path of Tropical Gale Along Gulf

NEW ORLEANS —(INS)— Residents and naval base workers on the Mississippi delta fled to higher ground today as a tropical disturbance of near-hurricane force moved slowly toward the mainland.

Storm warnings flashed from Panama City, Fla., to Morgan City, La., a stretch of several hundred miles, thus marking the beginning of the gulf coast area's hurricane season.

New Orleans lay directly in the path of the wind, which the weather bureau expected to reach a velocity of 55 or 60 miles per hour. A 48-mile gale was reported by coast watchers, and high tides slapped against the sea-level Louisiana shoreline.

Hits Similarity Of Lindbergh, Nazi Statements

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — President Roosevelt's spokesman, Stephen T. Early, asserted today that there is "striking similarity" between fabrications of the Nazi propaganda machine and Charles A. Lindbergh's charge that "the British, the Jewish, and the Roosevelt administration are leading America toward war.

Lindbergh made that statement last night in an address sponsored by the America first committee at Des Moines, Ia., following the president's speech.

Commenting on the address, Early said:

"You have seen the outpourings of Berlin in the last few days.

"You saw Lindbergh's statement last night.

"I think there is a striking similarity between the two."

The envoy hopes to be in Moscow in time for the Anglo-American conferences with Soviet officials concerning aid to Russia.

Ambassador Oumansky conferred for an hour and a half with President Roosevelt at the White House yesterday. It is thought possible that he may be taking back to Premier Stalin a personal message from the president.

Sport Podge by REX HESS

This has been just about the dullest week in sports since way last spring when fans were waiting for the opening of the baseball season. Once more it's been the enfroced wait for something new on the sports calendar that's caused the sports wheel to stand still.

But cheer up, my friends, there are indications that the dog days are just about over.

The grid lid will be pried open just far enough for a quick squint at Stadium field when the Downtown Coaches, and all fans who are interested will gather under the high school lights for a session of instruction in rule changes conducted by the Tyger coaches and Referee Bill Keefe.

Members of the Tyger squad who will be used in demonstration of the new rules will be introduced to the crowd by Coach Paul Snyder.

It isn't much, but it will do
To take away these sportless blues.

Tomorrow night the football season really gets under way when the Mansfield professional City News gridders don their brilliant new blue and grey uniforms and dash out under the lights of Madison high field to do battle with the Lorain Ex-Hi's.

Coach Earl McMullen, who has seen the best and worst of Mansfield pro teams in the years gone by, is all hyped up over the prospects of this 1941 aggregation, and promises the fans a real exhibition of football in this lid-lifter.

And now that the sports wheel is starting to turn again, golf and baseball are crowding back into the limelight.

The Sept. 19 opening day rule for high school football set up by the Ohio High School Athletic association has taken away the usual gridiron feature of the Bellville street fair, so instead there'll be a double-header baseball game between Ontario and Bellville tomorrow afternoon with the first game starting at 1:30.

And after this tune-up the Ontarios hop over to Mansfield's Liberty park on Sunday afternoon for the rubber game in their series of three tilts with the Liberties.

"We're glad to hear the Liberties are loading up," says Manager Red Hamman of the Ontarios. "They'll feel just that much worse when we trim 'em."

And now without even thirty winks,
We'll turn our attention to the links.

Plans are getting under way for the second annual Richland county golf tournament to be held in the near future at Westbrook Country club.

And the high school golf team, winners of the district championship last spring, is attempting to line up a fall schedule of matches. It seems that now, while the boys are on top of their game after a summer of play, would be the best time to pick the school team for next year.

Little Pat Wins 5th Circuit Race

READING, Pa. —(U.P.)— Little Pat, nine-year-old son of Hollywood Bob, today held his fifth successive free-for-all trophy at the Reading Fair Grand Circuit meeting.

Driven by the veteran Charley Lacey, Little Pat raced to straight heat victories yesterday in 2:03, 2:02¾ and 2:04½. It was Little Pat's 63rd victory in his career and his 11th of the season.

* * *

The Grand Circuit move to Delaware, O., next Tuesday where the trotters and pacers will race for three days on the speedy Ohio track.

Cleveland Takes Twin Bill

Steve Gromek, Former Mansfielder, Hurls Today.

WASHINGTON — (AP)—The Indians are only a game and a half below third-place Chicago today, and assured of at least an even break in their four-game Washington series.

A pair of victories by a pair of left-handers turned the trick yesterday, Al Smith getting an 8-5 triumph and Al Milnar taking the nightcap 3-2.

Smith allowed 10 hits, walked three and fanned five. Dutch Leonard started as his opponent, but Alejandro Carrasquel, who heaved the last three innings, was charged with the loss.

Milnar limited the opposition to five hits, struck out seven and issued no passes. Ken Chase was the loser.

Jim Hegan, Cleveland's rookie catcher, worked the second game, hit two singles in four tries and ran his three-game batting average to .417, five out of 12.

Today's hurlers are rookies—Gromek vs. Wynn.

The stupendous struggle of the St. Louis Cardinals and Brooklyn Dodgers for the National league pennant keeps piling climax on top of climax.

Yesterday the Dodgers battled to a 6-4 triumph over the Cardinals in 11 innings as tense as any world series session could be and yet their series has two more contests to go.

The victory boosted the Dodgers' lead to two full games and concentrated the pressure on the Cardinals. But it didn't remove the crisis that existed before the series started because St. Louis still could regain first place by two percentage points by capturing the encounters today and tomorrow.

* * *

The standings now:

Brooklyn	89	49	.645
St. Louis	86	50	.632

The difference between the two teams yesterday was just two men—Dolph Camilli and Dixie Walker of the Dodgers. Camilli clouted his 33rd homer with two on to climax a four-run rally in the fourth inning. Walker singled with the bases loaded in the 11th for the winning runs.

Howard Pollet, 20-year-old southpaw whose coolness belies his youthfulness and brief experience in organized baseball, was Manager Billy Southworth's pitching choice today. Against him gesturing Leo Durocher, boss of the Brooklyns, planned to use Curt Davis. Like Durocher, he formerly was with the Cardinals.

Since coming to the majors in mid-August Pollet has gained three triumphs while dropping one 3-2 decision at Brooklyn. Davis has won 11 and lost six.

In the other National league action yesterday, the New York Giants crushed the Cincinnati Reds, 6-0, with four-hit pitching by Bob Carpenter and a five-run fifth inning.

The Pittsburgh Pirates and Boston Braves divided a doubleheader. The Pirates took the opener, 7-5, scoring four runs in the second to make Ken Heintzelman's task easy. In the nightcap Tom Earley pitched a 10-0 shutout for the Braves.

The Detroit Tigers evened their season's series with the New York Yankees at 10-all by wringing out a 5-4 decision in 12 innings. Herman Besse rejoined the Philadelphia Athletics and clipped the Chicago White Sox, 2-1, in a pitching duel with Johnny Rigney in which each gave six hits.

Ex-Cubs Aid Dodger Pennant Drive

If the Brooklyn Dodgers win the National league pennant this year, several former Chicago players, once with the White Sox or Cubs, will have played a prominent part in the proceedings. Here are 11 former Chicagoans who now are stars with the Dodgers. Seated, front center, are Augie Galan and Kirby Higbe. In the row behind them, left to right, are Billy Herman, Dolph Camilli, Larry French, Curt Davis and Whit Wyatt. Standing, left to right, are Newt Kimball, Dixie Walker, Hugh Casey and Coach Corriden.

Erie Downs Terriers

Sailors Win First Mid-Atlantic Playoff.

CANTON—(AP)—With the important first game theirs, Erie's Sailors drive on tonight in pursuit of the Mid-Atlantic league's playoff championship.

They defeated Canton 5 to 2 in the opening contest of the final series last night as Southpaw Ted Maillet held the Terrier batters helpless. He hurled hitless ball until the seventh inning, allowed only three hits over the entire distance, walked one, and permitted only one ball to leave the infield in the first six innings.

* * *

The Sailors scor d twice in the opening inning on a single by Mongiello and doubles by Maloney and Cotelle. They added another in the fourth on singles by Cotelle, Heinrich and Bosiak, and made two more in the ninth on singles by Bosiak and Maillet and two errors by Steiner on the same play.

Canton's runs came in the eighth on singles by Everett and Tighe, a walk to Lee Mohr, an outfield fly and a wild pitch.

Another game is scheduled here tonight, then the teams go to Erie to continue their four-out-of-seven series.

Columbus Takes Edge Over Blues

(By Associated Press)

Minneapolis, perennial contender for top honors in the American Association, appears doomed to disappointment again in the annual post-sea on playoff series.

* * *

The Millers led the league during the regular season off and on, but faded badly in the waning weeks. However, they saved fourth place and qualified for the playoffs, but they probably aren't too happy now.

* * *

Last night they bowed to Louisville 4-1, for the third time in three games. One more loss and it's curtain for Mineapolis.

The Columbus Red Birds, pennant winner, took a 2-1 edge over Kansas City in the other series with an easy 6-1 decision in Columbus. They reopen their series in Kansas City Saturday.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

NEW YORK — (The Special News Service)—No matter what happens from here on, the boys can't make any more cracks about the Dodgers' old men. . . . Fred Fitzsimmons is the daddy of them all and if anybody could give a better or more courageous performance than he did yesterday, we'd like to hear about it. . . . And Fitz hasn't been getting any too much help, either—13 errors behind him in the past four games he's pitched. . . . Anyway, Peewee Reese's contributions to the error list are making Joe Cronin look good. He has maintained all along the kid wasn't a major leaguer. . . . Michael Smith, a Brooklyn embalmer who is a red-hot Dodger fan, joined the club on the way to St. Louis and for a while yesterday it looked as if he could go right to work on Brooklyn's pennant hopes. . . . If they don't win today, the Cards had better change their brand of vitamin pills

Dolph Camilli is Brooklyn's chief consumer of pep pellets and you saw what he did. . . . Dolph takes two kinds and the boys say the big ones are for homers and the little 'uns for baseluits.

QUOTE, UNQUOTE.

Mike Jacobs: "I think the NBA made a wise choice and I've wired congratulations to Abe Greene. I think we can get together down at my place in Rumson and do something for the good of boxing."

SERVICE DEPT.

Lieut. Carl Newsome of the air corps, formerly sports ed. of the High Point (N.C.) Enterprise, asks how about running a few more notes on what the boys in the army camps are doing. . . . Well, here goes. . . . Last year Coach Vee Green of Drake had five varsity fullbacks and five on the freshman squad. Now one is in the marines, two in the army, one in the flying corps and one of the frosh took a job in an airplane factory, leaving one letterman and four other yearlings, who promptly became ineligible . . . The Moffett Field (Calif.) flyers have lined up a nine-game grid schedule, starting Sept. 20 against Nevada.

TODAY'S GUEST STAR.

R. G. Lynch, Milwaukee Journal: "The United States is about to do Tom Harmon a big favor by drafting him into the army. Tom, a fine young man when he attended Michigan, is said to have 'gone Hollywood' in a big way. We cannot think of a better way to cure him."

* * *

Maybe they could lend a few games to Will Roger air base in Oklahoma, which started practice with no equipment, no schedule and an uncertain squad. . . . Mart Farmer, the one-armed hurdler from Texas Tech, would like to join the air corps if they'd take him. . . . He figures if he can rope and brand calves with one hand, piloting a plane shouldn't be too hard.

GALION — Galion has been awarded the state championship motorcycle Tourist Trophy races, an event of Sunday, Sept. 21, it was announced here this week.

The races will be held on the Sunset Ramblers race course, six miles south of here.

* * *

After investigating bids by several motorcycle clubs throughout the state, the Galion club was awarded the state races because of the fine showing made during the past year.

Last year the state races were held at Waldo and attracted nearly 4,000 spectators.

Elimination races will be held in both the expert and amateur classes to determine the eight best preliminary races with riders competing in the finals. Races will start at 2 o'clock, and continue throughout the afternoon. Trophies and $275 in cash prizes will be awarded the winners in the 80-cubic-inch open classification which will feature all races.

Birmingham, Ala., the defending champion, engages Waterbury, Conn., in an afternoon game certain to eliminate one of the once-beaten teams.

Shaw Makes Brown Happy

Wears Size 13 Shoes, But Is Third Fastest Player.

COLUMBUS —(U.P.)— He wears a size 13 shoe, stands six feet four and weighs 221 but is the fastest man on the Ohio State football team, is rugged on defense and has fingertip control when it comes to catching passes.

* * *

In other words Bob Shaw of Fremont, is the type of end coaches dream about but seldom see. The amazing all-around Sophomore star, who scored approximately 900 points as a high school cager and holds the state Class A scholastic shotput record, looms as a sure thing for the Varsity No. 1 right end assignment on the Buckeye eleven.

* * *

The 20-year-old Shaw, who won nine letters in high school and received his numerals last year as a Buckeye Freshman in football, basketball and track, has been shifted to right end by Coach Paul Brown to fill the gap left by the illness of veteran Pete Hershberger who is physically under par due to a summer throat ailment.

Although Coach Brown doesn't go overboard on Shaw at this stage of the Buckeye practice, a satisfied twinkle comes to his eyes whenever the skyscraping speed merchant from Fremont is mentioned.

* * *

The Buckeyes' practice yesterday was devoted to polishing up their pass plays in a "tag" game that was featured by the accurate throwing of Fullback Jack Graf.

* * *

The linesmen had a thorough day in contact work and Guard Ed Bruckner of Sandusky remarked at the end of the afternoon session, "We've had more contact work in two days than we had all last year."

Champs Race At Norwalk

One-Armed Driver Also Enters Midget Event.

NORWALK — Four sectional champions and the world's only one-armed race car pilot, little Wes Saegesser of St. Louis, will be among the field of star drivers competing in the eight event midget auto racing program Sunday afternoon, Sept. 14 on the Huron county Fairgrounds half-mile track.

The champions entered are Paul Russo of Kenosha, Wis., perennial entrant in the Indianapolis 500-mile classics and holder of the eastern A. A. A. midget championship, Elmo Green of Phoenix, Ariz., winner of the Ohio banked track championship last year and current point leader of the Ohio Midget Racing Circuit, Carl Forberg, the Nebraska outboard midget king hailing from Omaha, and Al Bonnell, the Erie, Pa., Flying Dutchman, who captured Ohio's 1939 banked track title and last year won the state flat track midget laurels.

Six elimination events will open the Fairgrounds program and will be followed by a 10-lap Class B Consolation event and a 20-lap feature.

* * *

Starting in the main event will be all cars finishing first and second in the eliminations and the Consolation race. Time trials open at noon and Starter Jerry Berry will send the gas jockeys away on the first eight lap elimination race promptly at 2:15 p. m.

Stars for Lorain

ED PRICE

This backfield ace of the Lorain Ex-Hi's who meet the Mansfield City News pros in the first game of the football season at Madison High field tomorrow night, was picked on an All-American colored team last fall. Fast and shifty, Price stands five feet, 11 inches, and weighs 170 pounds.

Kent State Preps Team

Coach Looks Forward To a Good Season.

KENT — (AP) — Kent State's 1941 football team has high hopes of capturing the mythical state and Ohio Conference championships it missed by an eyelash last season.

* * *

Coach G. D. (Rosy) Starn, with at least 24 members of last year's superior squad returning for another campaign, admits the Golden Flashes will be the strongest in years.

* * *

He expects to better last year's record of eight wins and one loss -- four victories without defeat in the Ohio conference.

The selective service program has claimed two of last season's veterans, Tom Schenz, guard, and Anton Lesek, end, and four others all eligible for call.

Coach Starn has material for both aerial and line crushing attacks. Ed. Biasella of Canton and Joe Mileski of Kent are accurate passers and Bob Williams, 190-pound former Kent Roosevelt high school star, and Howard Mack of Cleveland are capable power exponents.

Biasella is one of the four squadmen expecting the call to the army. The others are Lowell Wetzel of Akron, halfback; Stan Drongowski of Kent, guard, and Walt Porowski of Cleveland, tackle.

* * *

Although there appears little room for Sophomores on the first team, Chet Bania of Cleveland, may see service at end

Kent State opens its schedule Sept. 27 against Bluffton.

HARMON ASKS 3-A DRAFT CLASSIFICATION

GARY Ind —(AP)— Tom Harmon, University of Michigan All-America halfback who was graduated last June, spent a half hour before his draft board last night seeking deferment.

Harmon has asked 3-A classification on the ground his parents, Mr and Mrs. Louis A. Harmon, are dependent on him. The board did not act immediately.

Bride Nearing Golf Title

Betty Newell Enters Brookline Semi-Finals.

BROOKLINE, Mass. — (INS) — During the past four years tiny Betty Hicks Newell has competed in 40 tournaments in all parts of the country, winning only few enough to count on the fingers of one hand—and none important.

* * *

But today this bride of three months from Long Beach, Calif., 20 years old and all of five feet tall, was within finger's reach of the national Women's golf championship.

Today Mrs. Newell meets another seasoned campaigner, Mrs. Estelle Lawson Page, of Greensboro, N. C., winner of the national women's golf tournament.

Yesterday Mrs. Newell won 2 and 1 from long-hitting Miss Clara Callender, daughter of a Pasadena, Cal., golf pro, who has been playing golf since she was 11 years old, or just ten years ago.

* * *

Mrs. Page, several times north and south champion, who was medalist in 1938 and finalist in 1939, had a fairly easy time entering the round of four, winning 5 and 4 from Miss Janet Younker, of White Plains, N. Y.

* * *

The other semi-final match brings together Miss Helen Sigel, 21-year-old Philadelphia champion and longest hitter of the four remaining contestants, and Mrs. Frank Goldthwaite, mother of two children from Fort Worth, Tex.

Miami Still Adds Talent to Squad

(By Associated Press)

Miami university, already blessed with one of tis biggest football squads in years, is still adding talent.

Fred Redeker, 195-pound sophomore triple-threat fullback from Cincinnati, joined the team yesterday and boosted the squad to 42.

Opening practice at Heidelberg college was disappointing when only nine of 17 expected lettermen showed up. A total of 25 candidates were on hand.

* * *

Elbert Nickel, sophomore halfback, stole the show with fine passing at the Cincinnati university intra-squad game. He retired early, however, with a bruised arm.

ARMY WILL USE RE-TREAD TIRES
Tests Prove Satisfactory Results From Reconditioning.
WASHINGTON — (AP) — The army will start using "re-tread" tires shortly on thousands of its passenger cars and trucks to help conserve the nation's stocks of rubber.
Announcing this yesterday, the war department reported that reconditioned tires proved "entirely satisfactory" in recent experiments. They were found to give about 80 per cent of the normal service of a new tire for 40 per cent of the cost.

Cornell In Tight Position

'Big Red' Starts Practice With Only 7 Lettermen.

(This is another in a series on prospects of major college football teams.)

By ALFRED MAAS

ITHACA, N. Y. —(AP)— Coach Carl Snavely at Cornell university is sure of just one thing as he faces a football season with a hatful of Sophomores and only seven lettermen—he's looking forward to an "interesting job."

The loss of 20 lettermen through graduation has broken up the first three teams of a Cornell squad that last year won six games, running out a string of 18 games without defeat, and lost two.

Snavely has no passer to take the place of Hal McCullough, no blocking back and play caller who at this moment could give even a good imitation of Walt Matuszczak, and certainly no tackle with anywhere near the skill of Nick Drahos.

"It's an awfully green team," Snavely sighed, riffling his wad of player records. "But working with a green team is an interesting job. I'm looking forward to it, and I am going to enjoy it, win or lose."

That is Snavely, the football technician, speaking of a knotty problem with the earnest relish of an Einstein sitting down to a new mathematical formula.

But here is Snavely the Cornell coach, whose teams in the last five seasons put the "Big" back into the "Big Red":

* * *

"It's foolish to talk about how good we're going to be. Of the lettermen only Right End Ray Jenkins and Halfback Lou Bufalino have had any considerable of the subs has been in a varsity ofthe subs has been in a varsity game.

* * *

"What we do this season depends on how the boys develop. They tore into each other in spring practice: They'll have fight. But the team will be lighter in every position. One thing is certain: We're going to have some terrible mistakes made at first."

Snavely had been hopeful this year of producing a kicker, something Cornell could have used even in the last impressive season. But Charlie Weiss, being groomed for this role, underwent an appendectomy just before practice began.

With McCullough gone, Cornell's passing game is likely to suffer. But Snavely, pointing out that McCullough as a passer was "homemade;" learned all he knew after making the varsity," gives at least a hint of replacements to come.

Oct. 4, Syracuse; Oct. 11, Harvard at Cambridge, Mass.; Oct. 18 Navy at Baltimore, Oct. 25, Colgate; Nov. 1, Columbia at New York; Nov. 8, Yale, Nov 15, Dartmouth, Nov. 22, Pennsylvania at Philadelphia

Michigan Without Harmon Prepares for Tough Season

ANN ARBOR, Mich.—(INS)—H. O. ("Fritz") Crisler, head football coach at the University of Michigan, is one gridiron mentor who has cause to sigh deeply as he contemplates the 1941 season, the while casting pensive thoughts back to 1940.

For Crisler is the coach whose job it will be this year to find a replacement for Tommy Harmon.

The task probably will prove impossible. How replace a man who in one season (1940) personally scored 16 touchdowns, made 18 conversions and kicked a field goal for a total of 117 points — much more than the combined total of points scored by all his teammates?

Crisler's fellow Big Ten coaches will understand, even if they do not share his regrets, if he pauses at this early point in the season to shed a tear in memoriam. Harmon's loss is not the only one causing Crisler sadness, for the Wolverines also will have to get along this year without such stalwarts as Quarterback Forest Evashevski; Halfbacks Paul Kromer, Robert Kresja and Harry Kohl; All-American Ed Frutig and Edward Czak, ends, and Milo Sukup and Ralph Fritz, guards.

However, as Coach Crisler assembled his 1941 squad for the opening of practice, he still was able to look at some pretty fair football players — Capt. Bob Westfall, fullback; Cliff Wise, Paul White, John Allerdice, left halfbacks, George Ceithaml, quarterback, and Norm Call, Tippy Lockhart and Dave Nelson, right halfbacks.

In the line, Bob Ingalls will return for his center job and Al Wistert, brother of All-American Francis Wistert of the 1933 squad, will amply take care of one of the tackle berths. At the ends will be found Harlin Fraumann and Joe Rogers; Bob Flora, Rube Kelto, Rudy Sengel are all veterans at tackle, and Bob Melzon and Bob Kolesar look fairly adequate at guard However, some of these linemen may not escape the draft call.

As matters now shape up, Ceithaml and Westfall will carry the Wolverine burden in the 1941 campaign. There is no reason to suspect that Westfall will not at least equal last year's performance — he only scored three touchdowns, but he picked up the yards when they were needed. For instance he made 196 more yards in eight games than did "Jarrin' Jawn" Kimbrough of the Texas Aggies in nine games.

* * *

Michigan meets five Big Ten foes- Iowa, Northwestern, Minnesota, Illinois and Ohio State. The Wolverines at the present writing do not figure to be able to do much about Minnesota, but they apparently have a slight edge over Illinois and Iowa, with the Northwestern and Ohio State games looming as a couple of those anything-can-happen arguments.

The Wolverines open their campaign at home Sept. 27 against Michigan State, then face the following foes: Oct 4, Iowa at home; Oct. 11, Pittsburgh at home; Oct. 18, Northwestern at Evanston; Oct. 25, Minnesota at home; Nov. 1, Illinois at Champaign, Nov. 15, Columbia at New York City, and Nov 22 Ohio State at home.

Wright Kayoes Archibald In 11th

WASHINGTON — (AP)— Chalky Wright, a streamlined little fighting whirlwind from Los Angeles, too!, over today as featherweight king in New York and Maryland, and promised to take on all comers in the division—"the tougher the better."

* * *

Chalky, a lithe Negro with plenty of power in his flying fists, knocked out Joey Archibald, the Providence, R. I., veteran, after 51 seconds of the 11th round here last night to gain the New York-Maryland title recognition. Each weighed 125.

* * *

Chalky particularly wants to battle Richie Lemos, another Californian, whom the National Boxing association ranks as featherweight champion.

EAGLES FOOTBALL TEAM DRAWS 25 FOR PRACTICE

The Eagles 145-pound football team last night had 25 squadmen out for practice at the Richland county fairgrounds.

Club managers said team positions were still open to players who could make the weight limit and that the team practices at 5:30 p m, nightly and at 9:45 a m, on Sundays.

BEARS WIN AGAIN

BOSTON — (AP)— The Chicago Bears, relying mostly on "freshman" talent, gave a convincing demonstration to more than 38,500 Boston fans last night that they'll again be a tough nut to crack in the National Football league by defeating a college All-Star team 23-6

PROVIDENTS LOSE TO CHICAGO CLUB

DETROIT—(AP)—Eight teams, including Cleveland, entered the quarter-final round in the girls' division of the National Amateur Softball association tournament today. Cleveland beat Peoria, Ill., 1-0, and Chicago beat Mansfield 5-0.

In Hospital Not Ring

Zales Loses Chance at Middleweight Crown.

NEW YORK —(AP)— Tony Zale will spend tonight in a hospital instead of in the ring at Madison Square Garden—and as a result the middleweight division will have to remain the muddleweight for a while.

* * *

Tony was scheduled to oppose Georgie Abrams, of Washington, by way of Uncle Sam's navy, in a 10-round non-title bout that was to have been the first step in straightening out the conflicting title claims of Zale and Billy Soose, the New York recognized titleholder.

But Zale neglected a skin ailment on his feet and legs and wound up in a hospital, where he is expected to remain a week.

Tonight's fight was to have been the first of a series designed to earn general recognition as champion for one fighter. If it had been successful, Promoter Mike Jacobs planned to rematch Zale and Abrams in a title fight in Chicago and to have Soose and Ken Overlin fight for the right to meet the winner in a decisive bout.

INDIANS PROVE EAGER ROOKIES IN ARMY UNITS

Group of Volunteers High From Reservations In Far West.

WASHINGTON — (UP) — The army will never concede that the Indian is the Vanishing American.

Of the 272 Indians available for military service at the Fort Peck reservation in Montana, almost 50 per cent have volunteered for the army, the Office of Indian Affairs reports.

Throughout the country the office says, "surprisingly large percentages of Indians," are volunteering and many more are being trained in mechanical and technical skills.

In Oklahoma, 30 Comanches have been selected to form a special Signal Corps detachment to use the Indian language for code purposes in communications. The Comanche language is little known and particularly difficult to learn.

During the World war, the office said, two Indians completely baffled the German army. A front line artillery unit, whose telephone messages to the rear were constantly intercepted and decoded by the enemy, hit upon the idea of using two Indians as telephone operators. The Indian dialect crackling over the wires stumped the code experts of the German army, and the artillery unit had no further difficulty.

The Sioux Indians who left the Fort Peck reservation are direct descendants of the band led by Chief Gall at the Battle of Little Big Horn in which Gen. George Custer's 7th Cavalry was annihilated. It was at Fort Peck that Sitting Bull finally surrendered.

Indians in the Civilian Conservation Corps have acquired particular skill, the office reports, in handling trucks on rough terrain and through timber. This training is regarded as of particular value to the army, and many of the CCC camps are being drained of their drivers by the army.

Indians of the Klamath tribe in Oregon—in 1938 they won a judgment against the United States for past wrongs—voted to donate $150,000 to the government if it would establish a school under army guidance to train Indians in aviation and other national defense activities.

ATTENDS CONVENTION

Dodgers Beat Cards 6 to 4

Before a crowd of 20,000 in St. Louis, the league-leading Brooklyn Dodgers eke out a 6-4 win over the St. Louis Cards in an 11-inning duel, thus increasing their lead to two full games with two more games of the "crooecial" series to be played on the Redbird diamond. Dixie Walker singled in the 11th with the bags loaded to account for the margin of victory. In this photo, Peewee Reese of the Dodgers takes a throw from second to force Johnny Hopp, Cardinal fielder.

CHAPTER XXIX

Pat had been reading a newspaper while he waited for Cherry to come back from April's room. Cherry paused in the doorway, her heart beating very fast, then she went to him swiftly and sat down on the arm of his chair. She was a little breathless with the suddenness of her decision.

Pat dropped his paper to the floor, and gathered her in his arms. When he kissed her she clung to him with a new passion that surprised the young attorney. When Cherry finally pulled away he looked at her quizzically.

Cherry dropped her pansy eyes, twisting a button on his coat, her cheeks pink. She said with a sudden shyness:

"Mister Hastings, if you're not too busy tomorrow, will you marry me?"

Amazement crossed Pat's lean, brown face, then his arms tightened around her.

"Cherry Lind, if this is a new game you're playing with me, it isn't funny."

Cherry put her lovely lips close to his, saying in a whisper:

"I love you so, Pat. Will you marry me right away. Please?"

Pat kissed her again and he knew there was no doubt that the problem child had grown up. His arms trembled as he held her close, knowing at last that she was all his.

"You—mean it," he said huskily, looking deep into her eyes. 'My darling, you do mean it."

Cherry nodded swiftly, her eyes shining. Then she laughed softly:

"Let's elope—tonight. We can't get married in New York without waiting several days. Let's elope to Virginia, and surprise mother and your folks."

Pat grinned foolishly:

"Okay, Miss Lind! Tomorrow is Saturday and I don't have to go to the office. If we start now we can make it in time to be married Saturday evening. It's a date!"

* * *

Cherry giggled her little girl giggle: "Won't everybody be surprised? I don't want any fuss or feathers. Just a license and a preacher, and nobody will know till it's all over. I'll leave a note for April. She'd love it that way. I know she would! I—it's so much more romantic don't you think?"

Cherry babbled breathlessly.

Pat kissed her again: "It sounds plenty romantic for me, Sugar. Let's go!"

Cherry jumped from his lap! "I'll throw some things in a bag and be back in a minute."

"I'll have to drop by my room for a bag too," Pat got up, still unable to believe it could be true. "Hurry darling, before you change your mind."

"Never," Cherry called back over her shoulder at the door. "You're hooked for life, Mister Hastings."

June came again to Douglaston and found April still in bed, but in her heart was a song that had not been there on that day a year before when she had flown back from Reno.

With Hill living across the street, coming to see her and sending flowers and telephoning it was almost like living their first young romance over again. At least it was to April who believed with never a wavering of her deep faith that she would walk again, and that some day not far distant she and Hill would repeat their marriage vows. Her patience was amazing to Gay and Curt and all those who loved her.

Hill devoted every minute possible to sitting beside April in her blue and gold room, and all the rest of his waking hours to the golf school where he worked feverishly to make up for the years he had wasted. Dr. Malcolm was amazed at what had been accomplished in such a short time. The club opened the first of May and was filled almost to capacity a month later.

It had been necessary for Hill to find 12 assistants to help him with teaching. It seemed that every golfer in Manhattan wanted the opportunity to say he had been taught his favorite game by Kent Hillyer.

When Hill came to April exhausted at the end of a long day her heart soared with happiness. Every line in his tired face made her proud, because she knew that it meant her beloved was doing it all for her and for his son and that her burdens were at last on his strong, broad shoulders.

April would read over her fan mail which still came in from those who missed her voice on the air, with a deep yearning to go back to her career when she was well. She had decided that she would leave it entirely up to Hill as to whether she would be just plain Mrs. Hillyer of Douglaston, or April Lind, the radio star.

Kenny was in seventh heaven at his father's golf club. Every day when he was not in school, and often after school in the afternoons Hill would come and get Kenny and take him out to take his golf lesson and play around the club. Dr. Malcolm called the child the mascot, and told Kenny he had brought them luck. Hill really believed that his son showed signs of being a genius, and in another year expected him to be a sensational golf prodigy if his interest continued to grow.

When Kenny swung a club and yelled "fore" Hill wore a proud, paternal smile that would have made April's heart leap with joy if she could have seen the new comraderie that existed between father and son. After Kenny sent a ball sailing through the air he would yell:

"How was that, Daddy? Am I going to be a champ like you?"

Hill would pat the small back and tell him if he worked hard he not only would be champion but that the sign over the golf school would read "Kent Hillyer and Son," some day after he finished college.

One evening late in June Dr. Malcolm called to see April and told her he had decided it was time she went into the Channing hospital for a checkup. If convenient he wanted to send an ambulance for her next morning.

They would remove the cast and make their tests and find out exactly what condition her right leg was in. He wanted her to remain in the hospital for a week. Dr. Malcolm felt it was time to begin to prepare April Hillyer for what he felt certain she would have to be told. That she would not walk again.

The elderly man looked at the lovely young woman lying so patiently among her pillows, and there was a look on her pale face that he could not bear to erase. A happiness in the wide gray eyes that was astonishing to the medical man when he took into consideration that the patient had been entirely helpless for six months.

Dr. Malcolm lost his courage when he tried to find words with which to prepare April for life in a wheel chair. Instead he smiled unsteadily, taking her hand:

"Tell me, my dear, where did you inherit all your patience and fortitude? Were I in your place, I'm afraid I'd bite your head off if you came to see me and told me I had to go back into the hospital for a week. You look positively happy."

April smiled, holding the older man's hand tightly:

"I am happy. Happier than I have ever been in my life—almost. Would you really like to know why?"

"It would most certainly be interesting to a crabby old man," the doctor chuckled, "to hear your recipe for being able to take it, child."

"It's because," April confided, "of the way all this has changed my husband's life. Of the way he's settled down to work and taken care of us! He's working day and night. I'm so proud of him!"

"I ought to know about that," Dr. Malcolm chuckled again. "Because I happen to be his partner"

April said astounded: "You! Why how did that ever happen? No wonder Hill has been so secretive about his backer."

Dr. Malcolm told April briefly of the day Hill came to the hospital with the money to pay her bill and how he found out the former champion was interested in opening a golf school and offered him the Stiller estate.

Tears of gratitude gathered in April's eyes.

"How nice," she smiled, "to know that you are responsible for the fact that as soon as I walk again Hill and I are going to be remarried. Doesn't it make you feel like cupid?"

Dr. Malcolm said urgently:

"Why wait until you can walk? That may take a little time. Your husband belongs with his family instead of in a little room across the street, eating his heart out because he isn't with his family. Take an old man's advice, child. Don't be so hard on him."

April shook her head swiftly: "No. I'm not going to be a bride until I can be the sort of wife Hill needs, and deserves. So it's up to you to get this cast off my leg, so I can get to the altar. Oh, I know you think I might not walk. But I will. I don't know how I know, but I've never doubted it. I'll walk, you'll see!"

Dr. Malcolm left quickly, because he could not bear the blind faith of the young woman with the wide, happy gray eyes and the small eager face.

That evening things were taking place at Pennyhaven that April was to hear about with great relief and happiness.

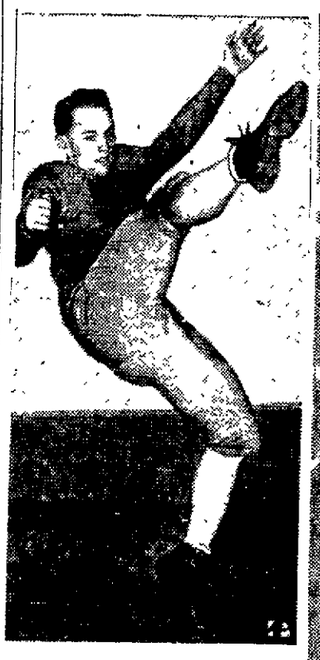
Harmon Sees Bright Array Of Stars on 1941 Gridirons



BRUCE SMITH

ED FRUTIG

By TOM HARMON

ANN ARBOR, Mich.—I thought that picking the All-America possibilities coming up for 1941 football service would be a breeze—but I find upon thinking about it that 1940 seniors keep bobbing into the picture.

There are plenty of outstanding men left, though, and if I fail to mention any particular favorites please bear with me and understand that the players I mention are those that I remember from personal experience.

Starting at the center of the line, two graduated centers stand out most prominently in my mind—Hiemenz of Northwestern and Frick of Pennsylvania. But there's a young fellow still on hand at Minnesota, Flick, who probably will be at least their equal.

At the guards Pukema of Minnesota will be back—and plenty tough it his play last year is an indication. Bob Kolesar of Michigan I would rate as the other outstanding man at the guard spot.

Tackles were many last season and all of the great ones that played against us are back aagin for another year. Outstanding on the list is Alf Bauman of Northwestern, Odson of Minnesota, Bob Reinhard of California, and Al Wistert of Michigan. Here, I believe, is as fine a bunch of tackles as you'll find any place in the country. All are big, fast and powertul. They all smack hard and all of them are smart, a quality that can't be lacking in a good tackle.

I may seem to be sticking pretty close to home but when you talk of ends I don't think Ed Frutig can be left out. Playing on the same team with him makes it hard to think of anyone who played against us who could come close to him at that position.

Anderson of Ohio State should be in for a good year, as should Leidholt of California. Friedland of Michigan State and Moel of Northwestern will also be around.

Now, the backfield. This will really be tough because it seems easier to remember backs than linemen and a number of them stick out vividly in my mind.

To name a few, there's Bruce Smith of Minnesota, Jurkovich of California, DeCorrevont and Clawson of Northwestern, Smith of Illinois, Davis of Michigan State, Hatcher of California, and Kinkade of Ohio State. And don't forget Bob Westfall of Michigan. There's a guy I'll bet on every time and if I had to pick four out of that outstanding group I'd put him in with Smith, Jurkovich, and DeCorrevont.

That's a football team I would like to coach if I were in the profession—and I imagine a lot of coaches around the country would welcome the same aggregation to their gridiron.

* * *

As far as teams are concerned, the Big Ten looks like a fight between Northwestern, Minnesota and Michigan. On the Coast, Stanford will have a dog - fight on their hands when they play California. In the East it looks like Cornell will be right back there with Penn making them work all the way.

Stanford, Notre Dame, and Northwestern look like the big three—outside of Michigan—and I'm anxious to see how the dark horse, Ohio State, makes out.

Please consider that I'm confining this to the teams with which I'm acquainted—and now so long, and good luck to your favorite players and your favorite teams.

GERMANS FACE WINTER OF ICE, MUD IN RUSSIA

Below Zero Weather Waits Armies, Skies Clear For Air Attacks.

By Special News Service

NEW YORK—Through a critical summer—for 12 weeks—the Russians have stood off the Germans. Barring a sudden collapse of Soviet defenses, Adolf Hitler's armies which he has trained for Blitzkrieg are fated to endure the fogs, rains, snows and gales of a six to nine month Russian winter.

The war dispatches make it clear that winter already is setting in. Steady, pouring rains and fog are reported from the northern front about Leningrad and Smolensk, west of Moscow. A German army reporter speaks of "bottomless mud" about Leningrad.

These are the autumn rains which will extend to the Ukraine and be succeeded by the long, severe winter. Not until April in the south, until May or June in the north, will there again be warm weather. And even then there will be the brief spring when the thaw makes a morass of Russian plains and bogs. Huge ice blocks will grind and crunch along the broad, deep rivers then at flood stage.

The autumn rains and the spring floods may interfere more with the campaign plans of the German generals than the actual winter. Fog and rain ground scouting and bombing planes. Tanks and supply trucks become mired in the mud. Floods and ice floes sweep away pontoon bridges. Many a disaster can occur to an army depending upon a tenuous line of communications under such conditions.

It is the common German soldier who will hate the winter. He will have to march and attack through snow two feet, even three or four feet deep. Terrible winter gales will sweep his camp.

Snapping below-zero temperatures will numb his body. Added to the immense casualties the Germans have suffered in fighting will be the frozen feet, hands and faces which may send tens of thousands of them to the hospitals.

In the winter war of 1939-40, the Finns and Russians fought in 40 below zero temperatures north of Leningrad. Extreme cold, however, extends far south to all Russia except the Crimea, a narrow strip north of the Black sea and parts of the Caucasus.

Kiev, the capital of the Ukraine, is about the same latitude as Newfoundland or Winnipeg. The Caucasus is about the same as New York City or Salt Lake City. Moscow's latitude is about the same as Edmonton or the south shore of Hudson Bay. Leningrad is about the same as the southern tip of Greenland or Anchorage, Alaska.

But too much cannot be read into these latitudes, for Russia is a great land mass, untempered by warm waters.

By December it is cold enough in the Ukraine to freeze over the rivers. Cattle and sheep perish in the blizzards of mid-winter. Even the northern part of the Caspian sea freezes, and occasionally fishermen are trapped on floes there.

By the end of November Leningrad to the north is closed in by ice, and stays that way until May, sometimes June.

The Russians who started their invasion of Finland on Nov. 30, 1939, found themselves stopped by deep snowdrifts almost immediately.

Pictures of Napoleon struggling back from Moscow through the blizzards, however, should not cause Americans to think the same fate is certain to meet Hitler's armies.

Skies over the present front probably will be their clearest in the winter months. The blue winter skies will be favorable to aerial operations. The rivers, when thickly frozen over, no longer will be formidable barriers to tanks and masses of infantry. The roads, now deep in mud, will be hard and firm for the movement of supplies.

Hard as the winter may be on the common soldier, it may not be the obstacle for the generals that mud and rain now presents. The winter will be as cold for the Russians as for the Germans.

Much will depend upon who is best prepared for the weather. Fragmentary reports indicate the Germans are preparing millions of fur coats for their soldiers, ordering skis to give them mobility, buying horses to substitute wagons and sleighs for their motor supply columns.

If the Russians are as ill prepared with warm clothing and thick boots as they were in the Finnish campaign, they may be worse off than the Germans when their own winter descends upon them.

One advantage the Soviets may have—the advantage of positions and trenches already prepared, and warm, largely undestroyed towns, cities and farm houses behind them.

The Germans will find it difficult to dig trenches in the frozen earth when they advance. Joseph Stalin's scorched earth policy will leave little shelter behind them.

STOCK MARKET HOLDS BALANCE AFTER FDR TALK

Trends Are Relatively Steady After Opening With Mild Advances.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — The stock market today maintained its balance in the wake of the presidential "shoot-on-sight" broadcast.

The list started with a fair spread of fractional advances in moderately lively dealings. While many issues did little or nothing, trends were relatively steady near the second hour.

Anent Mr. Roosevelt's announcement that Axis raiders would venture into America's "defensive waters" at their peril, brokerage quarters suggested the edict had been pretty well anticipated by Wall Street.

Boardrooms discerned further indications of an easing of the business tempo in the survey of Dun & Bradstreet which said that this week's rise in public spending throughout the country was "smaller than the increase which usually takes place in early September."

Merchants, in most instances, it was added, traced the lagging improvement to the exceptional rush last month which made quite a dent in consumer purchasing power. For the nation as a whole, however, retail distribution for the week was placed at 20 to 25 per cent over the like period a year ago.
